C. L. (Kit) Carter and His Double Log Cabin

THE Possum Kingdom dam, now under construction in Palo Pinto county as a unit of the Brazos River conservation and flood control project, will inundate, when completed, one of the oldest pioneer homes in Texas. This home was built in 1854 by C. L. (Kit) Carter, prominent Texas ranchman, who died July 15, 1888. A few years before his death Mr. Carter made some additions to the house, but the logs of which it was originally built are intact and in a good state of preservation. For over eighty years the home has been continuously occupied.

Kit Carter was a rugged character—a born frontiersman—who scorned the soft ways of civilization. He liked the wild freedom of lone prairies, rippling streams, canyons and gorges. He was told (in 1854) not to go farther West than Waco, for if he did so the Indians would kill him and his family. But Carter was not of the type that could be easily bluffed or frightened by a few bad Indians.

In 1849 he first came to Texas from Missouri, riding horseback all the way. Later he returned to Missouri, put his family and all his belongings into a covered wagon and came west to Waco, then a small village.

Picturesque Bend of the River

In a year's time Carter tired of village life and with his family pushed on up the Brazos river. After days of rough traveling they came to a picturesque bend of the river, in what is now Palo Pinto county. The family was so impressed with the beauty of the scene that they went into temporary camp for a much-needed rest. Mr. Carter cut down a huge live oak tree from the trunk of which he sawed a 4-foot slab and fashioned it into a dining table. Further exploration of the river valley proved that the soil was fertile, grass abundant and springs flowing from rocky hillsides. Kit Carter had found at last just what he had been looking for—a kingdom all his own far out on the feather edge of the frontier—a hunting and fishing paradise. Here he began at once to "build a house to surround his dining table."

Today that house still stands as a symbol of a staunch pioneer's workmanship. The old log house is well off the beaten path, hidden behind brakes of the winding, tree-shaded Brazos. There are two 16-foot rooms with a large hall between, a side room built of cedar pickets and large front and back porches. It is what the pioneers called a "double log cabin." The original floor was of live oak logs, hewn and smoothed with the broad-ax. This same old broad-ax is now hanging on the wall in a tool shed back of the house.

Bullet-Scarred Logs and Doors

At the time Mr. Carter built his log cabin, in 1854, this part of Texas was inhabited chiefly by the wild Comanches—who made war on the white man and the white man's wife and children. Knowing all this, Carter built his home so it could be defended against Indian attacks. Some of the logs and doors of the old cabin are still bullet-scarred. Recently a muzzle-loading bullet was removed from one of the doors, put there by a red-skin who had learned the ways of the white man's weapons. The first settlers found the Indians armed only with bows and arrows, which were deadly enough at short range, but when guns came to be used by the savages it was a matter of gravest concern.

stands in the front yard of the Carter home is an aged live oak tree, probably the largest tree in the State. The base of the trunk measures 21 feet in circumference, and one of the limbs is 12 feet in circumference. How long the tree has stood there no one knows, but when Mr. Carter built his log cabin, eighty years ago, this tree was about as large then as it is now.

The death of Kit Carter was a distinct loss to the cattlemen of Texas. He headed a group of 60 early West Texas ranchers who organized the first cattlemen's association in the Southwest. That was in 1877. They called their organization the "Stockraisers' Association of North-west Texas," later changing the name to the present "Texas Southwestern Cattle Raisers' Association," which now has a membership of 2500. This group of 60 early West Texas ranchmen met under a live oak tree at Graham, Texas, February 15th, 1877, and there perfected the first organization of Texas cattlemen, electing Kit Carter president. Mr. Carter was re-elected president each year, with exception of one year, until his death in 1888.

Remorseless time and industrial progress are expected to soon wipe out the last vestige of the Carter homestead and nearby family burial lot, where lie the remains of Kit Carter, his wife and sons and daughters. It is estimated that water impounded by the Possum Kingdom dam will cover the old cabin home, the big live oak tree and the family burial lot. Of the eleven children born to Mr. and Mrs. Carter, only two survive, Mrs. May C. Darnell, of Benkleman, Nebraska, and Mrs. W. N. McGregor, of Wichita Falls, Texas. Mrs. Carter died November 17, 1898. Before marriage she was Ann Smith Ross, niece of Col. Shapley Ross and grand-niece of ex-Governor Sul Ross.

It is well to have a Texas Centennial in honor of pioneers like Kit Carter. They came into a raw, savage country and remained to build an empire. We are glad they live with us again in the cavalcade of a century. How realistic they appear as they journey westward in covered wagons to the last frontier. We shall not see their like again. Peace be unto them.

Log cabin home of Kit Carter, (built in 1854) late pioneer ranchman and farmer of Palo Pinto county, Texas.

The lives of Mrs. Carter and her children were in danger at all times, but particularly so when Mr. Carter was away on long trips, driving cattle to Kansas City, or to some other distant market. "The Lord must have been with us," Mrs. Carter has been quoted frequently as saying. None of the immediate family was ever killed at home by Indians, but a son, Shapely Carter, was killed near Graham, Texas, in an encounter with a band of roving savages.

Finished Crop With Beef Steers

During a raid one night the Comanches stole all of Mr. Carter's horses and he had to finish his crop with beef steers yoked to plowbeams. He had put two negroes armed with shotguns on the back porch to act as sentinels and to guard the corrals, but the negroes fell asleep with the guns in their hands. Next morning moccasin tracks were seen within a few feet of where the negroes had slept. Why the Indians did not kill the negroes is a mystery, although they probably passed up the negroes in order not to awaken the family and take a chance of being killed themselves. The Indians had long since learned to respect Kit Carter's marksmanship.

An interesting landmark, that still

Mexico's Scenic Highway Ready

WITH elaborate ceremonies, participated in by government representatives of Mexico and the United States, including Vice-President Garner, the new Mexican highway was formally opened July 1, and the army of American motorists who for years have waited for the occasion will at last be able, without difficulty, to visit the republic to the South.

The highway, only a bold dream eleven years ago, runs for about 770 miles through a region of majestic beauty, from Nuevo Laredo, just across the Rio Grande, to Mexico City. Built at a cost of more than 62,000,000 pesos, (62,000,000 Mexican dollars), it is a section of the vast Pan American highway, which some day is expected to link Canada and the United States with the republics of Central and South America.

The new highway, known in Mexico as Camino Nacional No. 1, does more than make accessible to motorists a vast region much of which had been untouched by civilization for hundreds of years. It symbolizes the progressive spirit which has grown in Mexico in the last decade. Already it has had a cultural and economic influence on the villages and towns situated along its way; it is bound to have an even greater effect as Americans in larger numbers use it.

Closing the Gap

The last section of the highway to be completed is a stretch of about 600 yards some 200 miles south of Tamazunchale—a Mexican village.

It was here that the engineers met their most formidable obstacles. They blasted and shoveled, graded and surfaced, only to have a heavy downpour precipitate rock slides that swept the road shelf away. Time and again this happened, with discouraging regularity. This was the main cause for the series of postponements of the official opening of the highway—this and the admitted inadequacy of accommodations and other facilities south of Monterrey.

The government is building three tourist camps at Valles to be made available in July. A number of privately owned tourist camps are also going up, and some of these are now ready for occupancy.

Meantime, the present sleeping quarters and eating places along the 600 miles between Monterrey and Mexico City, can be described only as fair or poor, according to American standards. As for the food, it need not become a problem if the tourist will take along some tinned goods, crackers, cheese and the like; bottled drinks are readily obtainable at many points along the route.

Exceptions may be made for a few of the larger centers, such as Linares, Ciudad Victoria and Valles, where conveniences of a sort are provided. It may be noted, too, that conditions all along the line are rapidly improving and that before long even the precautions mentioned will not be necessary.

But these handicaps hardly weigh against the beauty and thrilling appeal of a trip over the highway. The only real hardship is that the driver must keep his eyes on the road and let the other passengers do the exclaiming over the gorges and ravines, the mountain peaks and valleys.

Across the Border

Soon after one crosses the border at

Nuevo Laredo it becomes apparent that one is on foreign soil; thatched huts begin to appear by the roadside and Indians, afoot or on burros, are seen herding their sheep. Far across the vista of dwarfed but luxuriant vegetation rise the lower ranges of the Sierra Madre, dimly visible at first, then lifting in grotesque shapes, serrated and uneven, as one approaches the village of Sabinas Hidalgo. The countryside hereabout, in season, is full of wild flowers, contrasting with the colored adobe walls and thatched roofs.

Twenty miles beyond the tourist reaches the crest of Mamulique Pass, 2,280 feet high—the first of a succession of truly magnificent vistas. Yet these are but a foretaste of more impressive sights to come. The road dips and turns, revealing an even higher range of mountains, some of the peaks sharply silhouetted against a turquoise sky.

Monterrey, the first place suitable for an overnight stop, after leaving Nuevo Laredo, is a unique blending of the historic and the modern. It boasts a Bishop's Palace, built 150 years ago, on a hill which affords a splendid view of the more modern portions of the city. With short sidetrips to famous Horsetail Falls, Huasteca Canyon and Chiniqué Mesa, Monterrey is a place to linger in.

Beyond Monterrey the highway runs into tropical vegetation. Ciudad Victoria marks the beginning of the tropics. Mangoes, lemons, oranges, limes, bananas and "aguacates" (alligator pears), Mexican plums, papayas and other fruits flourish in profusion. Flowers seem to grow larger, more fragrant and colorful.

The Mesa de Llera

Now the road slants down to a valley, climbs up the Mesa de Llera and plunges down again, snaking through deep and matted jungle growth from which giant cacti project like thorny organ pipes. Birds call from every tree, and flights of green, cardinal or black and yellow birds wheel over the road.

Behind the Indian settlements, frequently glimpsed, stretches a vast and famous hunting territory, where not only deer and ocelots but lions and jaguars abound.

At Valles are small hotels and tourist camps. An hour beyond Valles, the visitor enters mountains, quilted with garden patches so high up on their slopes and at such steep angles that it seems impossible for any one to till them. The road leads down to and across Coy river, filled with alligators, and then begins to climb again, revealing bold views that prepare the tourist for the real ascent further on.

It is between Tamazunchale and Jacala, where the road rises from 500 to 5,600 feet above sea level, that the scenic climax of the journey is reached.

Every turn reveals thrilling and awe-inspiring views, yet each panorama appears fresh and different, so varied is the coloring and the shifting lights on the peaks.

At Culebra Pass the highway reaches 5,100 feet, and six miles beyond 5,300 feet. It drops rapidly to the valley at Jacala, only to start climbing again, reaching 7,190 feet at San Vicente Pass. The view here down the steep ravine is indescribably beautiful.

Now the roadway dips through a broad valley almost completely encircled by towering mountains. The painted churches, with a steeple on the right and a dome on the left, appear more frequently—some of them the only structures left standing in villages which seem to have crumbled away. Then the road twists up along chalky cliffs, where huge cacti spread in grotesque formations.

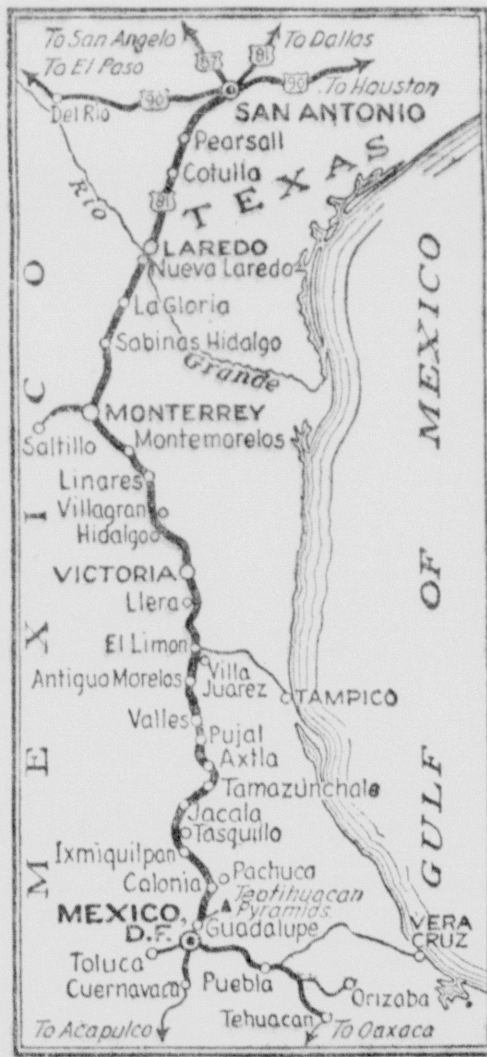

Near Octopan a new range appears, one of the loftiest, with a gigantic castle-like rock atop it. Fifteen miles beyond Octopan the road reaches its highest point—8,120 feet. Fields of maguey line the highway for miles in this region. This low-growing plant, with its sword-like leaves, yields tequila, mezcal, and pulque—three Mexican national drinks—and also fiber, rope and other products.

Nearing the Capital

The road then flattens out for the run to Mexico City, passing close to the famed pyramids and the ancient temple of Quetzalcoatl. Five miles from Mexico City many visitors turn right for a short run to the shrine at Guadalupe Hidalgo. Returning to the main road, one travels over the oldest highway in Mexico, bordered by a stone wall said to have been built centuries ago to separate Lakes Zumpango and Texcoco, which occupied much of the area now covered by the Mexican capital.

Many of the villages through which the road passes are well worth a half hour's inspection, if only to see how the Indian natives—shy people, with expressive black eyes—live in a strange compound of primitiveness and beauty. The crooked, cobblestone streets, the market places and plazas, and the adobe huts splashed with color belong to another world.

All along the way the inhabitants, whether Aztec or Huastecan Indians or Mexicans, are friendly and eager to be of service. Mexicans avow that "the American tourist is king in Mexico," and the visitor will find this to be generally true. While molesting of tourists is now a thing of the past, yet the Ministry of War has just ordered the permanent establishment of a military patrol to cover the entire highway, with camps at strategic points in the four States through which the national road passes.

How Paper is Manufactured

PAPER is simply a thin layer of vegetable fibers matted together. The fibers come from wood, rags, rope, straw, esparto (a coarse Spanish grass) and jute butts. The woods most commonly used are spruce, fir, hemlock, poplar, birch and gum. Recent experiments of the Department of Agriculture indicate that pine may also become a source of paper.

The first paper was made from the papyrus plant by the Egyptians. They cut the stems into long thin strips and laid them on flat surfaces to the required width. Another layer was then laid crosswise on the first and the two layers were soaked in the water of the Nile. Later the sheets were dried in the sun and polished with a piece of ivory or a smooth shell. Some papyrus rolls were 100 feet long and 15 inches wide.

The Chinese were the first to make paper from pulp. They soaked bamboo in pits of lime water until the wood became soft and then separated the fibers by beating between stones. The pulp thus made was spread out in a thin layer and dried. The result was a sheet of paper.

No one else knew how to make paper until an Arab adventurer strayed into China and brought back the secret to the Moslem Empire. Other people soon learned the secret from the Arabs. Today several countries manufacture paper, but for many years the United States has been the largest producer. The finest of all is made from linen cloth.

When bales of rags arrive at the mills they are pulled apart, washed, bleached and beaten to pieces by machines. The rags are then in proper condition to be dissolved into pulp. This is done in giant boilers, where they are mixed with lime and soda and boiled from 12 to 15 hours.

The material is then dark and jelly-like and goes into machines which wash it and separate the strong, valuable fibers from the soft, mushy part of the mixture. This fiber is drained off and put into beaters that work it into a pulp. Blueing is added to the bleached rags to give them a pure white tone, and mineral matter and chemicals, called sizing, put in to give body to the mixture.

At this stage the pulp looks like a thin flour paste. It is then poured upon a moving belt of fine wire which allows the excess moisture to drain out.

The rest of the moisture is taken out by drying between layers of felt and by running through heavy cylinders. It is then given a finish.

Wood paper is made in much the same manner, except that some wood pulp is made entirely by machinery without the use of chemicals. The paper made from this pulp, having no long fibers, is weak and tears easily.

Paper is used in an amazing number of articles from books and stationery to drinking cups and combs. The different kinds of paper are made by using different raw materials and by varying the manufacturing process.

Coated paper for illustrated magazines and books is brushed over with a mixture of English clay and glue. It is then passed over hot rollers. The result is the same as that obtained by starching and ironing cloth—a high gloss is imparted to the material. Our greenbacks are made from new rags with bits of silk floss fed into the liquid pulp to give the paper strength and to prevent counterfeiting.

Wax paper is made by running paper through a vat of liquid paraffin and then between heavy chilled rollers, which force the wax into the fiber of the paper, so that moisture and air cannot pass through it.

Carbon paper is thin, tough paper coated with a finely powdered carbon or lampblack.

Rice paper is made from the straw of the rice plant.

Cardboard is made from straw. Tar paper is a strong, heavy paper which has been soaked for some time in tar.

Leaf Count

The leaves of a tree take the raw materials brought up from the ground in the sap, expose them to the action of the sun, and somehow convert them into nourishing food for the tree. Thus it takes so many leaves to produce a peach, but botanists have disagreed over the exact number.

Now the Department of Agriculture sets the number at from 30 to 40. Thirty leaves, however, will produce only a scrawny peach. Peach growers therefore thin out the peaches so each will have at least 40 leaves to supply it with food.

The same is true of apples and oranges. It takes 50 leaves to produce a large apple and about the same number for an orange.

Women Workers

IN the days of old, that is, before 1890, all that women had to do was to cook, scrub floors, wash dishes, get the children off to school, keep house, plant and cultivate the garden, get in vegetables, milk the cows, churn, make clothes, weave, piece and quilt quilts, and a few other "little things" of like nature.

Now they have gone to work. There are today nearly 2,000,000 of them engaged in office work, about 75 per cent of the total; there are 706,000 saleswomen; of the 871,607 public school teachers in the United States in 1934, 717,746 were women. They have made themselves new industries, like that of hairdressing and manicuring, in which 113,000 of them are engaged. Of the hotel keepers and managers, there are 57,000 women; and—believe it or not—there are 3276 clergywomen.

They have entered fields formerly considered exclusively the province of men, such as manufacturers, operators of mines, efficiency engineers, presidents of utility companies, etc. There is hardly a business in which they are not engaged.

More than 10,500,000 women out of a population of about 60,000,000 are now fully employed outside the home.

Hay Fever

Hay fever, a catarrhal affection of the mucous membrane of the nose, eyes, and respiratory tract, at times is accompanied by asthma and fever. Physicians tell us that it is caused by the inhaled pollen of certain plants, among them the common rag weed. They have prescribed various remedies with little hope of cure, and have exiled the most hopeless cases to regions where there are no flowering plants.

Nothing is more uncomfortable and annoying than hay fever. The poor victim with his constant sneezing, sniffing, and red eyes feels that he has little sympathy from his fellows, and he knows that he is hopelessly wretched. In desperation he tries all kinds of "cures"; plunges his face in ice water, uses all kinds of sprays, submits to having his arm punctured with serums until it is a mass of sores—all these usually to no avail. He has reluctantly come to the conclusion that there is no cure and that there is nothing left for him but to grin and endure it.

Now comes good news. The Manchester Guardian tells us that physicians have found a near specific that cures in ninety-nine cases out of a hundred. "It is the result of five years' research by a department of St. George's Hospital in London. The treatment consists in the application by electricity of a coating of ionized zinc to the inside of the nostrils (where the irritation starts), and after three or four applications the majority of patients are rendered free from attacks for a year. If the patient is treated for three years running, there is usually no recurrence of the hay fever."

How to Live Long

Our newspapers like to feature stories of those who have lived longer than 90 years, and to print pictures of these old people. Frequently the nonagenarian tell to what he attributes his long life. Common causes assigned are continued interest in life and business, temperate habits, regular hours, and plenty of sleep. Some say that they have used tobacco in one way or another, and one old man assigned as one cause of his longevity the fact that he took a dram every morning before breakfast. Possibly, they lived far beyond the three score and ten not because of, but in spite of, these things.

Pictures of old people indicate that they have not overeaten. Every one of them I have seen is that of a lean person. There is no fat man among them.

John D. Rockefeller, who reached his 97th birthday on July 8, has observed the following rules since his youth:

1. Never lose interest in life, business and the outside world.
2. Eat sparingly and at regular hours.
3. Take plenty of exercise, but not too much.
4. Get plenty of sleep.
5. Never allow yourself to become annoyed.

Some Queer Inventors I Have Met

By JOE SAPPINGTON

322 Sedwick Ave., Waco, Texas.

(Copyright, 1934, by the Home Color Print Co.)

HAVE never met a real inventor—who had invented something of practical value to humanity—but have met many amateur inventors, several of whom were of the freakish type.

Most inventions never get further than the first stages. Once in a while a fledgling inventor will announce, in a high-pitched voice, that at last he has perfected his device and wants the public to come out and see him demonstrate it. I have in mind Jim Hawkins, who demonstrated his "safety whiffle-tree" to a big Saturday afternoon crowd.

"Now, folks," Jim said, reassuringly, "don't be alarmed at what you are about to see. I'm going to put my team in a high hope, just as though it was running away, and when I near yonder corner I'll throw the lines over the horses' backs, pull the leather strap I'm holding in my hand, and thus release the runaway team from the wagon. Now watch me."

Everything worked just as Jim said it would, except the safety whiffle-tree. It jammed—and the wagon flopped over at the corner.

When they got Jim out of the wreck he was still hollering, "Whoa!" and pulling on the release strap. He had a badly sprained back, and was fined $5 for violating a city ordinance.

Dick Sargent's Mouse Trap

Of all the funny inventions I ever saw Dick Sargent's mouse trap was the funniest. This trap required no bait and was of simple construction—nothing but a tin disc that whirled on

6. Set a daily schedule of life and keep it.
7. Get a lot of sunlight.
8. Drink as much milk as will agree with you.
9. Obey your doctor and consult him often.
10. Don't overdo things.

The Quintuplets and Quadruplets

The quintuplets, the Dionnes, recently celebrated their second birthday. They have learned to talk, and it is said to be a pretty sight to see them fold their little hands and say their prayers. They now have a baby brother, an eight-pound youngster, the eleventh living child of father and mother Dionne. One child is dead.

Oklahoma is proud of her quadruplets, the Key sisters, and well she may be if they are as pretty as their pictures and as bright as their associates and teachers say they are. They had a new experience the other day—enjoyed it and are proud of it: They voted in the recent primaries in Oklahoma.

Voting

When I was a boy, I learned that one slogan of our forefathers of the Revolution was, "Taxation without representation is tyranny." When I got old enough I began to vote and have voted every time I had a chance since that time. I have to pay my tax, and I want something to say about who spends my tax money and what it is spent for. When I hear a man who did not vote in the last election abusing the government, whether city, county, State or national, he excites no sympathy from me. I can listen to him with all calmness. It is a great privilege of a free-born American citizen to be able to "cuss out" the government. I exercise it with considerable satisfaction when the man I voted for won in the election but failed to carry out his promises. I get the opportunity pretty often. I get even more satisfaction from "cussing out" the inefficient officer who won despite the fact that I voted against him. Seriously, we should doubtless have better government if all of us tried to understand the issues involved and voted for good men, whether these men were personal friends or not.

All of us are interested in our public schools and in the increase of our local and national debt. We are safe in saying that not one-fifth of the qualified electors vote in a school board or a bond election. The Presidential campaign of 1932 was somewhat exciting, more so than usual, but not sufficiently so to attract the attention of millions of voters. At least 25,000,000 of the 70,000,000 qualified voters in this country stayed at home on Presidential election day in 1932. Let us hope that we make a better showing this year.

Milk Wool

Within the past sixty years science has revolutionized the world. A person of that age can remember when there were no telephones, no radios, no automobiles, no airplanes, and countless other things, great and small, now so common as to be taken as a matter of course. In every line of human endeavor the scientists are busy. It has not been long since a process of making rayon, a substitute for silk, was discovered and now millions of dollars are invested in rayon mills.

Necessity is the mother of invention. When the League of Nations applied sanctions to Italy, wool could be imported only with great difficulty. The Italian scientists set to work to find a substitute. This they produced from skim milk. The product is called "lanital," from two Italian words that mean "milk wool." No one outside of Italy knows the process. But the materials made from this synthetic wool have been used to make suits for men and for other purposes and have proved satisfactory.

It is altogether possible that within a few years the milk wool industry may develop to the proportions of the rayon industry of the present day.

Sanctions

By sanctions is meant any coercive action against an offender against a law, or loss to him, or infliction of inconvenience to him, on account of his violation of the law.

Immediately after the outbreak of the war between Italy and Ethiopia, our President, carrying out the provisions of the Neutrality Act of 1935, declared an arms embargo against Italy and Ethiopia, and stated further that American citizens "who voluntarily engaged in transactions of any character with either of the belligerents do so at their own risk." He also warned citizens against traveling on ships of either of the nations at war.

On October 7, a committee of the League of Nations, of which both Italy and Ethiopia were members, reported that the Italian government had resorted to war in violation of the Covenant of the League of Nations and named Italy as the aggressor. A little later the League decided to impose economic sanctions upon Italy. These consisted of an embargo on arms, ammunition, and implements of war; the prohibition of all loans and credits, public and private, by the members of the League to the Italian government or its people; the importation into countries of League members all goods coming from Italy, either directly or indirectly; an embargo on key raw materials, largely controlled by the countries of the League. All of these sanctions went into effect on or before November 15, 1935, and threw the leg into the hogpen.

Returning home late that afternoon, Tobe beheld the nearest thing to his heart rooted about in the mud by a razorback hog. He was white with anger, but said never a word.

Picking up the leg, he put it in an oat sack, threw the sack over his shoulder and went back to town.

It was almost midnight when his wife came over to our home—crying. She asked me to please go and find Tobe and bring him back home. I went at once in search of Tobe and found him sitting on the side walk, explaining to a crowd of yaps everything about his "wonderful mechanical leg." I saw he had been drinking, and knew I would have trouble getting him home. He had promised a leg free to every man in the crowd should they ever need one. I put the thing back in the sack and started home with Tobe.

Tobe Moseley Reforms

"Yesh, shur Shap, you are the besh frien I ever had," he said, "and if you ever loosh a leg I'm going to give you one. Yesh, I'll give you two legs, Shap. I'll keep you in legs the rest of your life and they shan't cost you a shent."

Tobe slept until almost noon before he awakened. I was by his side when he sat up in bed and tried to remember incidents of the previous day.

"What did I do last night, Lucy?" he asked.

"Nothing but what I'm to blame for," his wife replied, starting to cry again.

"Have you got that dern leg of mine?" he demanded.

I went outside and returned with the leg, which I handed to Tobe.

"Lucy," he began, in a solemn voice, "last night was the first drink of whiskey I have touched since we were married and it will be the last. That blame leg was the cause of it all. I want you to put the thing in the fire so we all can see it burn."

I tiptoed to the door, opened it softly and went on out. Tobe had Lucy in his arms and she was crying like her heart would break.

seriously inconvenienced Italy in the prosecution of the war. For all that, Italy won the war, although there are many Ethiopians still under arms and much of the country unoccupied by Italians.

On July 5, the League reluctantly revoked the sanctions.

Famous Bridges

The automobile gave an impetus to the building of good roads and bridges. As the automobile developed more traffic, the question of congestion became acute in large cities like New York. Back in 1883, long before the day of the motor car, New York City had completed the largest and longest suspension bridge in the world to span East River and connect it with Brooklyn. Later, under the leadership of W. G. McAdoo, New York bored a vehicular tunnel under the Hudson river to connect it with Jersey City, N. J., which, in turn, is connected with Newark, N. J., many miles distant by a bridge-like structure with six lanes and numerous ramps to connect it with the cities above which it is suspended. The George Washington bridge across the Hudson river to join New Jersey with upper Manhattan was completed a few years ago.

On July 11th, the President of the United States and the Mayor of New York City led in celebrating the opening to traffic of the great Triborough bridge, which was begun eight years ago and is now near completion. It cost the immense sum of $64,000,000. It unites the New York boroughs of Manhattan, Queens, and the Bronx. The section from Ward's Island to Queens (on Long Island) over East River is of the suspension type, supported by great cables. The structure as a whole can be seen only from the air. It is in the shape of a capital Y, and is nineteen miles long, spans four bodies of water and crosses Ward's Island with six lanes.

If you visit the West Coast this summer, you will see at San Francisco two great bridges in the making—one is an eight-mile span over San Francisco Bay; the other, a bridge across the Golden Gate, 250 feet above the water, so that ships may come in without hindrance. Farther north, there are five bridges close to the Pacific over rivers flowing into that ocean. Later, these bridges will save the tourist much time and many miles.

When Eads finished the bridge over the Mississippi river, at St. Louis, back in the seventies, he was hailed as the conqueror of the Mississippi. About 1891 the great Cantilever bridge across the Mississippi at Memphis was completed, and for many years it had the distinction of being the bridge farthest South on the river. A few years ago, the bridge over the Mississippi at Vicksburg was opened. Now the State of Louisiana has completed, at New Orleans, the greatest of all bridges across the Father of Waters. Its highest span is 790 feet above the level of the river, and it is over a mile long. Three railroad tracks parallel the bridge in addition to vehicle and foot passages.

Everywhere we go we find marvels in modern bridge building. For instance, just to the north of Charleston is a three-mile bridge across the Cooper river, so high above the water that it allows clearance for the biggest vessel of Uncle Sam, who has a navy yard a few miles up the river.

A traveler over the highways of the nation would be well paid if he saw nothing else but the bridges.

Hen Language

Humans have thousands of words. Animals have only a few. A hen, for example, has nine.

In a recent lecture before the Royal Society of Arts, London, England, Dr. David Katz, former German professor, said in the hen's vocabulary is a word for danger, another to frighten a rival, another to keep her chicks around her and a fourth to encourage them to feed. These are in addition to her hysterical song of triumph when she lays an egg, and her rhapsody of pure delight when all is well with the world.

Mrs. Hen doesn't have to learn them, either. Chickens raised in a brooder and away from the flock learn even quicker than when the flock is around. But the rooster—he learns to "cock-a-doodle-doo" by listening to other roosters. His first efforts are only a series of miserable croaks.

Poison Ivy

A major problem of picnickers, vacationists and many home owners is that of poison ivy. There is little that can be done except to avoid the plant. It is easily recognized by its three leaflets and, at times, its white berries. Yet many fall victim to its poison by confusing this plant with the Virginia creeper which has five leaves and is similar in appearance to poison ivy.

O taste and see that the Lord is good: blessed is the man that trusteth in him. Psal. 34:8.

"The wagon flopped over at the corner."

BRIEF TEXAS NEWS---from Over the State

COW RESCUED FROM TREE PERCH

Washed onto a perch, high in a tree, a cow was rescued by stockmen 16 miles west of Gonzales. The cow had been washed onto the perch by flood waters of Sandies creek.

PINE LOG 4x20 FEET

A veteran short-leaf pine tree, cut in Red River county, yielded one log over four feet in diameter and twenty feet in length. The log contained 1,820 board feet.

PENSION PAID 100-YEAR-OLD WOMAN

The first old age pension check delivered in Fort Worth was handed to Mrs. Ophelia Jane Eastman, who celebrated her 100th birthday July 1, two days before receiving the pension check.

VALLEY EBONY WOOD MAKES HANDSOME PISTOL STOCKS

The firm of Smith & Wesson, firearms manufacturers, has tested ebony wood from the Rio Grande Valley, near San Benito, and report that it "machines perfectly and makes handsome pistol stocks."

CATCH 62 KING MACKEREL

Four local fishermen, of Mercedes, landed 62 King mackerel, totaling in weight about 420 pounds, in three hours fishing in the Gulf waters near Port Isabel. Names of the four fishermen are: A. Zastera, J. B. Fuque, C. B. Weimar and Ralph Dunson.

MASTER AND SLAVE LIVE IN SAME COUNTY

Joe Lee, age 83, and former slave of Henry Austin Perry, now lives within a few miles of his master, in Brazoria county. Lee was Perry's body servant. Mr. Perry is the oldest surviving relative of Stephen F. Austin and lives at Angleton. He was born at Peach Point, between Freeport and Brazoria.

385,086,000 CIGARETTES PURCHASED IN JUNE

Collection of cigarette taxes by the comptroller department in June set a new high record. Receipts for this month were $564,700, which were $159,297 greater than for the same month last year. June tax receipts represent the purchase of 385,086,000 cigarettes, or 65 cigarettes for each person in Texas.

FIRST OLD-AGE CHECK SENT BY UNITED STATES

The United States Treasury issued its first check in co-operation with the Texas Old-Age Assistance act on June 30th in the sum of $1,181,250.00. This sum is expected to cover the Federal share for July and August. The total payments for the two months, exclusive of administrative costs, are expected to be $2,250,000.00.

TEXAS TO PAY WARRANTS

Confederate pension warrants issued through August, 1935, will be paid by the State treasury if the warrants have not been discounted, according to Charles Lockhart, State Treasurer. Confederate warrants through August, 1934, will be paid regardless of discount. Lockhart also called for payment of $842,907.00 of general revenue warrants issued to February 16. The general fund deficit on June 15 was $9,352,953.33.

DUDE RANCH WITHOUT DUDES

A dude ranch without dudes is the hobby of R. H. Friedrich, San Antonio manufacturer. The ranch of 3,000 acres is 20 miles west of Kerrville. It has a frontage of one mile on Bear creek, where a dam creates a lake 500 feet long that is stocked with game fish. In addition to a herd of native deer, the ranch has herds of Virginia whitetail deer, European red deer, black and white fallow deer and Indian black antelope.

LAND LEASED FOR PLACER GOLD MINING

Rogers & Black, of Pittsburg, Texas, have leased land along Big Sandy creek, in Llano county, for placer mining for gold. They have made tests of the sand in this region and believe they can make the gold-mining venture profitable.

Dr. C. L. Baker, of the University of Texas Bureau of Economic Geology, in a survey of the Sandy creek area, made the following report: "This basin has exhibited the most extensive and notable gold showing in Central Texas."

LANDA PARK FORMALLY OPENED

Landa park, a natural beauty spot, near New Braunfels, was formally opened as a city park when city officials of New Braunfels purchased the park from private interests with an $80,000 bond issue.

Comal river flows through the park, a crystal clear stream three miles in length and which is fed by springs that gush out of a nearby mountain side. It is said to be the shortest river in Texas.

In 1845 Prinz Solms Braunsfels took his party of German immigrants to the springs in Landa park and founded New Braunfels.

WALKING CANES FROM WOOD OF OLD BOND CAPITAL BUILDING

A. J. Bond, of Mercedes, owns two walking canes which he claims were made from an oak sill, the last remaining piece of wood of the old first State capital building at West Columbia, built in 1836.

SET NEW RECORD FOR CONGRESSIONAL SEATS

The number of contested congressional seats, 19 out of 21 from Texas, set a new record for the July primary. Only 446 candidates seek seats in the lower house of the legislature against 510 in 1934. Only 28 are unopposed.

PIONEER RANCHMAN DIES

John N. Goforth, age 81, pioneer Texas cattleman and trail driver died at the home of his daughter in Houston, July 10th. Mr. Goforth was one of the first members of the Old Trail Drivers' Association.

WPA MATERIALS AMOUNT TO $16,000,000

Expenditure of approximately $16,000,000 for materials to be used on WPA projects in Texas was estimated by Aubrey Williams, deputy administrator. He said his estimates were based on materials needed for projects approved through April of this year.

The total for the State was fixed at $15,640,106. Of this, the Federal government will pay $9,029,528 and sponsors of local projects $6,430,578.

EAST TEXAS ROSE FESTIVAL

Some one has said that "a thing of beauty is a joy forever." This quotation can be applied to that territory in East Texas which grows great fields of beautiful roses. Tyler will celebrate the Texas Rose Festival, October 2 to 6, with a colorful street parade, a rose show, a historical pageant and coronation of the Texas Rose Queen. Preparations are under way to entertain many thousands of visitors during the event.

HOUSE BUILT OF ROCK SALT

Use of rock salt in the construction of highways was something new until Grand Saline came along and showed the world that houses could be built out of rock salt. Recently the business men of Grand Saline contributed enough money to construct a Rock Palace which will be maintained as a curio building, where information and road maps will be passed out to tourist. Twenty tons of rock salt, from the Morton Salt Company's mine, were used in its construction. So far rain has not damaged the building.

COMMEMORATE FIRING FIRST GUN IN TEXAS REVOLUTION

Daughters of the Republic of Texas will hold a special service, October 2nd, in the Alamo Replica, at the Centennial grounds, Dallas, to commemorate the firing of the first gun in the Texas revolution. This battle took place near Gonzales, October 1st, 1835, and resulted in the defeat of a detachment of 150 Mexican soldiers who had been sent by Gen. Cos from San Antonio to capture a cannon owned by the Gonzales citizens.

TEXAS FARMERS PAY 92.1 PER CENT ON LAND LOANS

Texas farmers who obtained first and second mortgage land bank commissioner loans during the past three years to refinance their debts paid 92.1 per cent of their installments up to June 1, compared to 89.0 per cent paid up at the corresponding date one year ago.

Over 29,900 land bank commissioner loans were made in Texas during the three-year period amounting to $57,742,000. Installments on the loans up to June 1 amounted to $4,406,000, of which $4,058,000 had been collected.

WHEN GINGHAM COST 31¢ A YARD

Mrs. W. A. Harrison, of Galena Park, near Houston, has an old receipted dry goods and grocery bill, dated 1857, which shows the cost of some things in Texas four years before the Civil War. Items listed and cost are as follows:

Gingham, 31¢ a yard.
Silk velvet, 20¢ a yard.
Sugar, 17¢ a pound.
Shoes for ladies, $1.75 a pair.
Tobacco, 13¢ a pound.
Rice, 9¢ 10¢ a pound.
Buckshot, 25¢ a pound.
Whisky, 15¢ a quart.

INCOME TAXES SHOW BIG INCREASE

Individual Federal income tax collection increased more than 63% in Texas during the past fiscal year. At the same time, collections throughout the United States were increased approximately 27%.

Preliminary totals made public by the Internal Revenue Bureau showed the 1936 collections of individual income taxes in the State amounted to $19,570,399 as contrasted with $12,085,834 during the preceding fiscal period.

All Federal tax receipts in Texas amounted to $74,205,467, an increase of about 23% over 1935 total of $60,818,875.

TEXAS HAS 7,000,000 HEAD OF CATTLE

The 7,000,000 head of cattle in Texas at the beginning of this year constituted more than 10 per cent of all the cattle in the United States, a report of the Department of Agriculture has revealed. Total number of cattle and calves for the entire nation is 68,000,000.

WPA WORKERS DECREASE

With 81,000 persons on the payroll, the Works Progress Administration in Texas has entered a new fiscal year. The peak of employment was last February when 125,000 persons were employed. The figures are supplied by H. P. Drought, State Administrator, San Antonio.

TEXAS SECOND IN AIRPORTS

Texas is second in number of airports and landing fields in the United States. California is first with 192 and Texas second with 135.

The Texas airports and landing fields were listed as follows: Municipal 55; commercial 10; intermediate 25; auxiliary 29; navy none; army 13; miscellaneous government, private and State 3; total 135; fully or partially lighted 50.

THE BUCHANAN DAM

Engineers who are supervising the work now going on in the building of Buchanan Dam, $7,000,000 unit of the Colorado river flood control and power project, estimate the dam will impound 2,400,000-acre feet of water and will create a lake 50 to 60 miles long. Height of the dam will be either 167 or 197 feet. It is located in Travis county.

The Insull interests spent $3,000,000 on the project before the stock market crash in 1929.

Great Sons of Texas

R. M. WILLIAMSON

R. M. (Three-Legged) Williamson was born in Georgia 1806 and came to Texas in 1826. He was known as the "Patrick Henry" of the Texas revolution.

He used a wooden leg in walking, but despite this handicap fought gallantly in the Battle of San Jacinto—the only soldier in the battle to wear a wooden leg.

R. M. Williamson was judge of the Third District of the Republic of Texas and a member of Congress from 1840 to 1850. He died in Wharton county, Texas, 1859.

TEXAS, SIXTH IN MOTOR VEHICLE REGISTRATION

Texas was reported by the roads bureau to have ranked sixth in the nation in 1935 motor vehicle registration, with a 5.3 per cent increase over 1934, placing the State's total at 1,382,104.

New York was first with 2,320,962, and California second with 2,151,501.

ONE OF SIAMESE TWINS WEDS

Miss Viola Hilton, one of the Siamese twins, married James Moore in a public ceremony at the Texas Centennial, Dallas, Saturday, July 18.

Daisy Hilton, the other twin, said she approved heartily of her sister's matrimonial venture.

San Antonio is the home town of the twins. They were joined at birth on the left side by a thick cartilage at the base of the spine. Together they can walk forward or backward.

ADVISES SIESTA IN HOT WEATHER

Dr. J. W. Bass, Dallas city health officer, said folk would be happier and healthier if they would adopt the Spanish siesta custom during hot weather.

"A short afternoon nap restores energy and tends to keep one from over-exertion during the day's heat," he said.

Dr. Bass listed some hot weather "don'ts" which he said would improve tempers and aid in keeping one fit. They follow:

Don't overeat.
Don't drink ice water that is too cold, but drink plenty of water.
Don't wear too many clothes, particularly the kind that bind or fit tightly.
Don't take too much exercise.
Get plenty of sleep.
Don't get excited.
Don't talk about the heat or look at the thermometer every few minutes.

PRISON POPULATION REACHES ALL-TIME HIGH

Population of the Texas prison system swelled to a new all-time high mark in July with 6168 prisoners confined within its limits.

9 OLD GUNS ADDED TO COLLECTION

In addition to many old firearms in the Baylor museum, at Waco, nine more have been added; the oldest, a flint lock shotgun, is 110 years old and was the first of its type and make.

13 WOMEN QUALIFY FOR PRACTICING MEDICINE

Thirteen women took the State medical examination recently. Most of the women candidates for licenses to practice medicine, officials said, intended to specialize in diseases of women and children. Ages of the candidates averaged between 25 and 26 years.

TRIPLET FAWNS BORN

Birth of triplet fawns to a White Tail pet deer at the ranch of Will Ramsey, near Kerrville, has aroused interest among sportsmen and game wardens. All three fawns are rare, but no other case of triplets can be recalled in that section of Texas.

SULPHUR FIRM VALUATION SET AT $34,850,000

Taxable valuation of the Texas Gulf Sulphur Company properties in Wharton county was set tentatively at $34,850,000 by the commissioners court of Wharton county, sitting as a board of equalization. The rendition by the company, which was not accepted by the board of equalization as satisfactory, was slightly in excess of $15,000,000 this year.

ROYALTY FUNDED TWO TEXAS TOWNS

Two towns in Texas led to the founding of Royalty near Austin. Bastrop was founded by the German Baron De Bastrop and New Braunfels was founded by Prince of Hohensolms-Braunsfels. It is said the prince intended to found a colony for Germany and extend German rule over Texas, but when the colonists who came with him discovered his purpose, they turned against him and refused to be a part of Germany. He later returned to his home country.

WPA REGULATIONS ON EMPLOYMENT

H. P. Drought, regional WPA director, San Antonio, outlined the following regulations which will govern acceptance of employees:

"Aliens, illegally in the United States, will not be employed. Neither will any person under 18 years of age or any person whose health or physical condition renders such employment dangerous. The NYA is exempted from this provision. No person under sentence to a penal or corrective institution will be given work. Race, religion or political affiliation must not be considered by employing officials."

DEVELOPMENT WORK AT 18 STATE PARKS

In co-operation with the State Park Board and other State agencies, the National Park Service now is carrying on development work at 18 State parks. They are Palo Duro canyon, Bonham, Bastrop-Buescheri, Lake Corpus Christi, Big Bend, Longhorn cavern, Mother Nef, Goliad, Fort Baker, Balmorhea, Daingerfield, Lockhart, Mackenzie, Cleburne, Tyler, Paris and Kerrville.

Work in metropolitan parks at Fort Worth, Beaumont, Dallas and Sweetwater is being done in co-operation with the respective local park boards.

40,099 TEXANS PAID OLD AGE PENSIONS

The old age pension commission, at Austin, mailed out 40,099 checks, totaling $641,465, to aged Texas persons June 30. The checks averaged about $16 each.

Classification of pensioners receiving checks by ages is as follows:

Age—	Men.	Women.

70 to 74.....	5,532	5,485
75 to 79.....	4,644	4,251
80 to 84.....	2,512	1,346
85 to 89.....	787	556
90 and more.....	143	171
65 and more but age unknown.....	34	47
Total.....	20,276	19,823

WILL TRY TO GROW DIFFERENT FLAVORED WATERMELONS

John Davis, of Coleman, amateur gardener, will try to grow different flavored watermelons this season. The method, which he claims to have learned from an experienced grower, is as follows:

When the melons reach a certain size Davis plans to connect them by strings with jars containing fruit flavors. One end of each string will be left in a jar and the other end passed through the melon with a needle. The melon will draw the liquid from the container, Davis believes. He expects to have orange, lemon, strawberry and other flavored melons.

FRISKY AT 100 YEARS OLD

These 100-year-old Texans are getting real frisky. Frank Divin, who was 100 years old on December 26, 1935, lives at Gillett, Karnes county, and says he has already made plans to attend the Texas Centennial at Dallas.

BUDGET REQUESTS FOR UNDER-PRIVILEGED CHILDREN

The State Home at Waco for Dependent and Neglected Children presented budget requests for the next biennium to the State Board of Control calling for $203,440 the first year, and $170,290 the second year.

LARGEST LING CAUGHT AT FREEPORT

The largest ling ever caught at Freeport snapper banks was hauled in by Shorty (Owl) Coyle of Houston.

The fish tipped the scales at 71 pounds. The ling derives its name from being long and slim and is of the marine gadoid variety.

SAM HOUSTON PAID A $3 SLAVE TAX

Harris county tax records show that General Sam Houston, of San Jacinto fame, paid a tax of $3 on a negro slave. Also there were tax penalties in those days. For example, a double tax was frequently collected when taxpayers were delinquent for more than one year.

EIGHT RURAL SCHOOLS STANDARDIZED

Eight rural schools in Tom Green county will receive certificates of standardization for next year from the State Board of Education, T. W. Parker, county superintendent, reports. The certificates have been received and are in the county superintendent's office.

LEAP YEAR FAILED TO MAKE GOOD

Leap year, so far, has failed to increase marriages in Travis county. Total marriage licenses for the first six months of 1936 in this county were 483. Marriage licenses for first six months of 1935 were 522.

TEXAS WOMAN CLAIMS 195 DESCENDANTS

A Texas woman, Mrs. Mary Jane Skinner, 97 years old, of Gonzales county, is a proud claimant of 59 grand children; 96 great-grandchildren, and 40 great-great-grandchildren, a total of 195, representing 5 generations. She was born in Memphis Tenn., and came to Texas 77 years ago.

WORLD RECORD SET BY TEXAN

The rapid fire pistol score of 195 out of a possible 200 made July 4, by R. F. Tate, of San Antonio, has been accepted as a world record according to word received from the National Rifle Association at Washington. Tate, a member of the San Antonio police team, used a .38 caliber Colt in making the score during the Texas State pistol shoot.

$23,700 BID FOR SAM HOUSTON MEMORIAL

A base bid of $23,700 by E. B. Sneed, of Austin, was low among bids for construction of a memorial to General Sam Houston at Huntsville. Including exhibit cases and other fixtures, the completed memorial will cost approximately $35,000, which is the amount appropriated by the legislature.

VOTES CAST IN FIRST GUBERNATORIAL CONTEST

It is interesting to note the small number of votes cast in Texas' first gubernatorial contest, in 1845, soon after annexation. In this election for Governor, J. P. Henderson received 7,853 votes and his rival, J. B. Miller, received 1,673 votes, a total of 9,526 votes. Quite in contrast to the number of gubernatorial votes cast in the first primary of 1934, which were 1,000,426.

90th BIRTHDAY OF PIONEER WOMAN

Mrs. Mary Rebecca Levister, of Bowie, recently observed her 90th birthday.

During the war between the States, at the age of 15, she knitted 500 pairs of socks for the Confederate soldiers. She is the only living charter member of the First Baptist Church of Bowie, organized 50 years ago. She reads the newspapers and the Bible without glasses.

FIRST AUCTION SALE OF U. OF T. OIL AND GAS LEASES

First auction sale of oil and gas leases of the University of Texas lands was held at Austin, July 20. Leases sold on 8,372 acres in Ector, Crane, Andrews and Upton counties brought $300,000. In the event of production the university would receive one-eighth royalty (one barrel in eight). Leases require annual delay rental of 50¢ an acre.

The university's fund from oil and gas leases and royalties is now $20,000,000. Texas was the only State in the nation to retain its public domain. It was a concession made in the annexation treaty, and Mirabeau Lamar, then President of the Texas republic, is credited with putting it over against much opposition.

MOTORIST'S PRAYER

The following prayer, written by Dr. Frederic S. Fleming, rector of Trinity Church, New York, should prove valuable for all motorists:

"Grant me a steady hand and watchful eye, that no man shall be hurt when I pass by. Thou gavest life, and I pray no act of mine may take away or mar that gift of Thine. Shelter those, dear Lord, who bear me company from the evils of fire and all calamity.

Teach me to use my car for others' need, nor miss through love of speed the beauties of Thy world; that thus I may with joy and courtesy go safely on my way."

Twenty of the largest banks in the United States now hold over six billion dollars worth of government securities.

The percentage of farms mortgaged in the United States has decreased only from 36 in 1923 to 34 in 1936.

CHILDREN OF TODAY — THEIR MANNERS

One day on a busy street I overheard a debate as to whether city or rural children had the better manners. The subject so interested me that I set about to make some inquiries. Perhaps it would be of interest to review my findings.

First, I interviewed a number of public school teachers both in the rural and city schools.

The statement of Mrs. B. so well expresses the opinion of eighty-five per cent of the teachers that I quote her words as follows: "I have taught school over twelve years. During that time I have had the opportunity to observe many children—first, in a rural school and then in a large city school where there was a mixture of rural and city children. Two things of which I am definitely certain, taking the children as groups, (rural and city): For good manners, co-operation, and consideration of others, rural children rank far ahead of city reared children. Secondly, for what I would call 'polished manners,' that is, such things as the correct usage of silverware, proper dressing, etc., the city children excel but not nearly to so marked a degree as one might expect. In class behavior I much prefer rural reared children." This statement was repeated to me, in substance, again and again. It made me very proud of the rural children, as a whole, in our country.

My inquisitive footsteps took me next to the churches, both rural and urban. Here, again, the words of a teacher—a man—expressed the judgment of those who have the responsibility for children's religious training. He said, and I quote with permission: "On numerous occasions my duty as superintendent made it necessary for me to have charge of parties and picnics for our Sunday school (city). The thing that distressed me most was the children's utter disregard for requests we made as to safety measures. They appeared to consider that they were fully capable of caring for themselves and needed no rules or regulations set by their elders for their safety. And when refreshments were served it was a case of 'first come—first served' and yet I knew none of them lacked food at home. This happened every time we had some sort of social gathering. I noticed these conditions at most social gatherings of young city folk.

"Imagine my surprise, when a relative invited me to a picnic where five rural churches combined for an all day meeting, to see rural reared children with far more consideration for co-operating than city children. I noticed that they entered into the spirit of games with more enthusiasm and a better spirit. During the serving of refreshments I saw the larger children carrying the choicest morsels to parents, friends, and smaller members of families. This behavior was so markedly an improvement over what I was accustomed to that I asked their superintendent if the children had been drilled in good manners especially for that day. 'No,' he replied, 'I was just thinking how poorly they acted today against their usual behavior.' When I reported my visit to my own church I knew a lot of the young folks didn't believe me, but it was true."

More than seventy per cent of teachers in religious child training told me the same facts, if in different words.

From personal observation and work with both classes of children, I must agree with those whom I interviewed.

Talking this subject over with an eminent child specialist, he revealed some startling facts to me. To quote: "In recent years one of the most astonishing things in the world has come to my attention; that is, the startling increase in nervous disorders among children. 'In fact,' he went on, 'in the past ten years I have had some cases of complete nervous breakdown in children under the age of sixteen. Twenty years ago this was unheard of. It is my personal opinion that nervous conditions make people more self-centered and less considerate of the interests of others.'"

With these facts in mind I set about to try to find a remedy for bad manners, or more constructive means to develop good manners. Following are a few suggestions given me by people trained and experienced in child rearing. Good manners in children are obtained best by:

1. Example at home. Many authorities put as much as 60% of results to example and environment.
2. Good health.
3. Proper food.
4. At least nine hours of sound sleep, and more sleep if of nervous disposition.
5. Definite and worthwhile work. This develops self reliance and co-operation.
6. Out-of-doors exercise every day of the year.
7. Avoid constipation.
8. Healthful reading material that will encourage gallant and considerate emotions.
9. The use of a firm "NO" for bad habits, and a pleased and encouraging word for constructive practices.

TESTED RECIPES

With the long hot days of summer how we dread even to think of preparing meals. Hot weather saps vitality and even further discourages jaded appetites. Yet it is certain that we need wholesome food as much in summer as in winter. For summer fare here are some very interesting dishes, rich in food value and tempting to the appetite.

It is profitable to the family to have the very best possible refrigeration, even to the point of sacrifice if necessary to get it. In our hot Southern climate the refrigeration in the home is responsible largely for the health of the family. Refrigeration is the way to keep foods in a safe condition and to avoid the dangers found in tainted foods. Have as good refrigeration as you can afford. You cannot afford to do less. Here are some tempting summer dishes:

Orange Cheese Salad

For each serving arrange the following:

Make a center mound of ½ cup cottage cheese, which has been blended with a little orange juice. Circle with alternating rows of half slices of orange or orange segments and slices of unpeeled apple. Garnish with lettuce hearts. Top cheese with 5 raisins centered with maraschino cherry. Serve with any desired dressing. Mayonnaise mixed with equal parts of cream is delicious.

Ice-Box Cake

½ cup orange juice.
2 tablespoons gelatin.
Soak five minutes and liquify over hot water. Add:
1/3 cup sugar, dissolved in:
½ cup boiling water

Summer heat yields to the full-flavored, stimulation of iced Lipton's Tea. Try a glass when the sun has got you down and note how much better you feel... immediately.

¼ cup orange juice
Cool. Mix:
12 marshmallows cut into eights
½ cup orange pieces.
Let stand while gelatin mixture cools. When gelatin begins to stiffen, beat until fluffy. Fold in orange pieces and marshmallows and lastly:
1 cup whipping cream, beaten stiff.
Line bottom of round pan (angle food cake pan will do) with lady fingers. Cut one round end from enough halves of lady fingers to stand up around edge of form. The cut ends touch the bottom of the pan. Pour in half the filling. Lay on any pieces or extra lady fingers and cover with rest of filling. Leave in ice-box overnight or until thoroughly chilled. Remove from pan and decorate with additional whipped cream and orange slices. This is tempting and delicious.

DIZZY DEAN stars in a pinch!

TEXAS FARM NEWS

Condition of sheep July 12th was 85 per cent normal compared with 87 for the ten-year average.

Chas. Gulley, of Millet, has shipped a carload of popcorn to Northern markets. He has 100 acres planted in popcorn.

Though Texas escaped the worst part of the nation-wide drouth, most county agents are urging farmers to build more trench silos.

July 12th cattle ranges were 82 per cent of normal compared with 84 per cent for the ten-year average.

An outstanding attraction of the International Harvester Company's exhibit in the Transportation building, at the Texas Centennial, is a mechanical cow—a Holstein—that chews her cud, blinks her eyes, moves her head and ears, switches her tail, breathes, moos and gives milk in a realistic manner.

A $1,000,000.00 income to East Texas from tomatoes is the estimated yield for the season now drawing to a close. Most of this income went to the Jacksonville area, Cherokee county alone supplying about half the production. Total car shipments numbered 3,000.

Buzzards are being trapped and killed by R. H. Byars, Colorado county ranchman. Since September he has killed 147 buzzards. These scavenger birds are no longer protected by the government—they carry germs dangerous to livestock by polluting livestock drinking water. Byars constructed two traps, each 15 feet long; one trap yielding 12 buzzards.

Rehabilitation client A. H. Moore, Douglas, Nacogdoches county, sold $483.90 of tomatoes from 3 acres. Moore borrowed $327.00 from the government with which he bought a mule, feed, seed and food for his family. The tomato money paid the loan. He canned pinks direct from the patch. On a total of 15 acres, he has 7 acres in corn, raises various truck crops, and maintains two cows and chickens.

Farmers in Rio Grande Valley began picking cotton July 15. The crop is reported the best in years.

Choice Elberta peaches brought some growers at Athens $1.75 per bushel, highest paid in five years. Crop was very short.

100,000 bushels of wheat is the reported yield for the Hamlin area this year. Droughty conditions were overcome by timely rains. Sales began at 70c and climbed steadily.

Joe Blondin, of the Yount dairy, near Beaumont, believes keeping cows cool will make them give more milk—hence he has installed two large blow fans in his milking shed.

Fifteen millions of dollars of new wealth came to the Lower Rio Grande Valley for the season 1935-1936 from shipments of fruits and vegetables as estimated in a final check up. This makes a record year for the valley. Car loadings were about 31,300, an all time record. Mercedes led shipping honors with 2266 carloads and San Benito was second with 2106. Weslaco moved 1588 cars, Raymondville 1482 and Brownsville 1230.

Goforth, in Hays county, is the ghost town of a former thriving farm community. Only one man, L. O. Miller, remains of the former population. The black land soil of the community was good for three quarters of a bale to a bale of cotton to the acre right after the Civil War when the community was first settled and the land cleared. Then the land began to wear out, gullies came in the hill sides, and in 1913 torrential rains washed away more of the top soil. Many farmers abandoned their fields. Engineers of the soil Conservation Service are doubtful if the soil can ever be reclaimed.

Rank growth of grass, following the heavy rains of June and July, have caused stomach worms to appear among sheep in the Edwards Plateau country of Southwest Texas.

Cedric R. Landon, of San Antonio, in charge of predatory animal control work, has 100 trappers working under him in Texas. Sheep suffer most from coyotes and bobcats in West Texas while poultry and hogs are the principal victims in Eastern and Southern parts of the State, said Mr. Landon.

Highlands, in East Harris county, has prospects for an excellent crop of high quality figs this year, according to growers in that area. The fig season usually is from July to November.

Raising quail commercially has been accomplished by Dr. J. D. McWhorter, of Taylor. In 1934 he purchased a pair of quail, raised 13 pairs that same year and has been successful with others since. He raises the young birds in pens. Eggs are hatched by bantam hens, but also in incubators, which can handle 100 eggs at a time.

That Sudan grass makes a fine manure crop was proved by Ben Wheeler, of Carizzo Springs. Last fall he plowed under a crop of Sudan grass and in November planted onions on the same ground. The yield was 600 bushels per acre, checked by A. L. Sebesta, Dimmitt county agricultural agent.

After farming ordinary terraced land for about six years, Ben F. Wood, of the Kokomo community in Eastland county, tore down his terraces and ran rows lengthwise of the land. After the first hard rain he was convinced that this plan of terracing was the best.

Wes Reed, Lamar county farmer, has a 17-acre field of garlic. He expects to receive about $2 per bushel for the crop.

Seven heifer calves from a Jersey cow, 11 years old, is the record on the farm of Nathan Hargrove, near Buna. The 11-year-old cow furnishes an abundant supply of milk.

2,226 lambs from 1848 ewes is claimed by John Fogarty, of Crockett county. He thinks it a record crop from a flock of this size. This is a 120.45 per cent crop, with the lambs said to be doing well.

B. C. Wells, near Lubbock, declares that the searing sun of late June actually cooked eggs in a hen's nest. The eggs were laid in the nest near the top of a barrel, exposed to the sun. Wells says the eggs were cooked just as if they had been soft-boiled.

A twin watermelon has been shown by M. Hope, who lives near Pharr. The twins weighed 54 pounds and were ripe when picked. The melons, joined at the stem end, each had a blossom end. Hope is said to have refused an offer of $25.00 for his freak growth.

Mrs. Mulch Shrubbery beds, to Mulch Shrubbery beds, in Dallas county, used soil from under and around an old straw stack. This soil was put several inches deep early in the spring and held all moisture that fell so well that the shrubbery continued to grow at a rapid rate during the dry weather.

The "Nellie E. Hillock" rose has been granted a patent by the United States patent office. Verne S. Hillock, Arlington, Texas, is the inventor. The patent office granted the patent "because of the unusual type of flower developed." Hillock claimed that his rose opened red but later turned to a deep rose pink.

Prospects for a good pecan crop in Texas this year are poor, says J. L. Rainey, official of the West Texas Pecan Growers' Association.

Dallas food packers have taken a total of 121,000 pounds of green black-eyed peas from the Athens area this season. Price was based on unshelled.

Mrs. Jesse J. Farris has exhibited a four-legged chicken grown on her farm near Mercury, McCulloch county. The two extra legs are directly behind the two normal legs.

First in turkey production and second in chickens, is the standing of Texas in the nation according to figures of the United States Census of Agriculture. Turkeys numbered 824,887, being 15.3% of the nation's total output. Chickens numbered 20,561,529, or 5.5% of the nation's total output.

Sweet corn production in larger volume in the Lower Rio Grande Valley is advised by M. S. Cook and James Myers, agricultural agents of the Missouri Pacific railway. The company experimented with this crop at Rangerville and believes that large scale production is profitable. About 25 carloads of sweet corn moved out of the valley the past season.

Seventy-five thousand pounds of highly concentrated acid phosphate has been distributed among 34 Harris county farmers to improve pastures. The phosphate, manufactured by the Tennessee Valley Authority at Muscle Shoals, is distributed by the government, with the farmers paying freight. The Harris county demonstration is to furnish needed acid phosphate in cattle feed. Clover yield has improved under this fertilization. Cows that get required phosphate acid from feed are said not to chew bones and not to have loin disease.

Newspapers report that O. Kennedy, watermelon king of Jefferson county, grew a melon of the triumph variety that weighed 183 pounds.

Corn averaging nine feet in height, two ears to the stalk, were raised by E. L. Walker, of Houston, in his home garden. He planted 8 rows, 45 feet long, 18 inches apart. His non-irrigated plot is 50x50 feet. From the vegetables, fruit trees, and berry vines, Walker claims to make about one-half of the living for his family.

A home made tractor has been built by Carl Stebbins, located nine miles east of Plainview. It has frame and rear wheels of a five-ton army truck, front wheels salvaged from a light tractor, and an automobile transmission added to the regular truck gears give seven speeds forward. The power plant is an 8-cylinder Packard motor. It has large tires all around. Stebbins says he pulled a combine over 45 acres with 16 gallons of gas as against 25 gallons for another tractor. Individual rear wheel brakes allow a turn in small space. The slow gears will pull plows and do other heavy work, while the high gears will make about 25 miles an hour on smooth highways.

Wiley Green, of San Angelo, paid $425.00 for a Rambouillet ram at the Ozona sale and show last month. This is a record price for the United States for 1936. Sales of stud rams at prices above $20.00 per head featured the sale.

A new money crop for the El Paso valley area has been developed in the growing of beet-seed. This year $250,000.00 worth of beet-seed has been harvested and shipped to Colorado and Utah. Sugar beet seed is raised in the Upper Valley and table beet seed in the Lower Valley. 2,000 acres, in the two valleys, cultivated by farmers, produce about 3,000,000 pounds of seed. Beet seed raised in the El Paso valley may be planted for a crop in one, instead of two years, as is the European system.

Our Boys and Girls

AUNT MARY, Editor, Route 5, Box 179-B, Fort Worth, Texas.

DEAR FRIENDS:

Just a friendly word of greeting to my many friends of the Sunshine Club and readers of this page. Through the ten years I have edited the boys' and girls' page it has been my great privilege and pleasure to know many wonderful persons through letters they have written me. Sometimes we often lay bare our true selves in a letter written to an unknown, but sympathetic, friend. A great man said: "There is in every person two selves; one is the person whom others know—one the person we would like to be." Thank all of you for your confidence, your loyalty and your wonderful help in making the Sunshine Club for Shut-Ins a great success.

Here is a special announcement which I regret to make. However, it is most important at this time. The active duties of the Sunshine Club will be suspended during August and September. The many personal duties of the leader, Aunt Mary, makes it impossible for her to carry on the amount of work in connection with the club during these two months. But, in October, when the hot days of summer are over, she will again resume leadership of the club with an active and interesting program. Therefore, until October, we will take a club vacation. For the benefit of those who wish to continue to write to Shut-Ins, a list of names will be printed on this page each month, although numbers will not be assigned.

I hope for all of you the best vacation of your lives. For a well-rounded life we should work, rest and play. Be sure to do your part of all three if you would be happy.

Best wishes to all my friends.

With love,
(Signed) AUNT MARY.

True Stories From the Bible

Esther—The Jewish Queen
Frequently in the Bible God uses a woman to shape the activities and influence the destiny of His chosen people—the Jews.

A striking example of the influence of a woman is pictured in the Book of Esther. As the story unfolds, we find the scene laid in the kingdom of King Ahasuerus, who was a powerful ruler. His decrees and orders were carried out to the letter. We find him ruling over a large kingdom "from India even unto Ethiopia over an hundred and seven and twenty provinces," as described in the first chapter of the Book of Esther.

King Ahasuerus not only was a powerful and wealthy ruler. He presided at large gatherings of princes and of those in authority throughout his vast kingdom. He loved to make a show and his greatest pride was his favorite wife, Vashti, who was very beautiful, and whom he had made Queen.

On one occasion the King made a great feast and entertained the leaders and princes for an hundred and fourscore days. He traveled all over the country with them, showing them the greatness of his kingdom—the vast wealth, and the absolute sway he held over the people. At last, this became tiresome and the King and all his court returned to the palace in Shushan and there held a great feast. For seven days the King entertained thousands of people, both great and small, and there was much drinking of the King's wine.

The King became merry, and on the seventh day he desired that Queen Vashti adorn herself and come before his guests. He wanted to exhibit the great beauty of his Queen.

But Vashti, not disposed to do as the King commanded, refused to appear; which angered the King exceedingly.

At the suggestion of Memucan, one of the King's advisors, the King banished Vashti and sent officers to bring fair maidens of the land to the palace, from among whom he might choose another Queen.

In Shushan was the Jew, Mordecai, a descendant of Kish, who had been carried captive from Jerusalem by Nebuchadnezzar. Mordecai had an adopted daughter, Esther, whose real father and mother had died. She was very beautiful and of a gentle, modest nature, and Mordecai brought her to the King's house. None of the servants, nor anyone connected with the King, knew Esther was of Jewish blood.

After the Jewish time, Esther was presented to the King, who fell in love with her and made her his Queen. Mordecai, waiting at the King's gate, overheard a plot to overthrow the King. Esther was informed of the plot and straightway told the King.

Those guilty were punished and Mordecai became a favorite of the court. After a time, the King made Haman next to himself in authority and all men were required to bow to Haman. But Mordecai refused to bow, which so angered Haman that he planned to destroy all Jews in the kingdom; by deceit and trickery he persuaded the King to let him order a wholesale killing of the Jewish people.

Let's Draw

Contrary Mary's gone away.

And in her place has come to stay.

A happy Mary.

In whose garden flowers blossom.

All the day!

When Mordecai heard of this planned persecution of his people, he sent word to Esther to appeal to the King. At first, she was afraid to go into the King's presence, as it was unlawful so to do, without royal request. But Mordecai sent this unto Esther: "Think not with thyself that thou shalt escape in the King's house. For if thou holdest thy peace thou and thy father's house will be destroyed. Who knoweth whether thou art come to the kingdom for such a time as this?"

After three days of fasting and prayer, Esther put on her royal apparel and appeared before the King. When the King beheld her, it pleased him much, and he held out his golden scepter, which gesture released her from punishment.

King Ahasuerus was so pleased with Esther, his Queen, that he told her she might have anything she wished. Thereupon, Esther invited Ahasuerus and Haman to a banquet that very day.

Haman was made proud by this distinct honor, and bragged about himself greatly to people who knew him.

That day, because of his anger against Mordecai, Haman ordered gallows put up that he might hang the Jew.

That night the King couldn't sleep, so he had brought and read to him the records and deeds of men in his kingdom. Hence, he was reminded how Mordecai had saved his life through discovery of a plot to kill him, and that Mordecai had not been rewarded.

Just about this time Haman stood in the King's court, ready to ask for the execution of Mordecai. But the King spoke first, asking Haman what he would do for a man whom he greatly favored. Haman, in his conceit, felt sure the King meant him and he answered: "I would give him of the King's own raiment, let him ride upon the King's horse and take him through the streets that all might honor him."

Thereupon, the King ordered Haman so to do unto Mordecai.

After Haman, notwithstanding his disappointment, had carried out the King's command he was ordered to another banquet given by Queen Esther. At this second banquet the King again invited Queen Esther to name the favor she most desired. And Esther asked for her life and the life of her people.

Utterly astonished, the King demanded to know who would take her life. Esther answered: "Haman, the wicked Haman."

Outraged by this duplicity, the King ordered Haman hanged upon the gallows he had prepared for Mordecai.

Mordecai was now raised next to the King in authority and the lives of the Jewish people were spared throughout the kingdom.

The courage and wisdom of Queen Esther thereafter guided well the destiny of the Jewish people.

("True Stories from the Bible" are based on the King James version).

THE HOUR I LOVE BEST

By Mayme Silver

I love the fresh, pure morning,
With a sky so fair and blue;
I love to see the sun arise
To give us light, don't you?

I like the noon hours also,
Though full of cares they be;
I try to love each hour He gives,
Though dark with clouds they be.

But when the western sky's aglow
And the busy world's at rest,
With time to think of Home, and God—
I love this hour the best.

Interesting Facts

Following are some very interesting facts taken from "The Modern Encyclopedia," Edited by A. H. McDonald.

The "Ivory Nut" is one of the palm plants. The juice of its globular seed-head hardens with age, and forms a substance used as a substitute for ivory in small articles such as buttons.

One of the most interesting birds in the tropics is the "Jacana," which has extremely long toes. These toes enable the bird to walk on floating water-lily leaves and similar plants. We might call them "water shoes." They have a plover-like beak, horny spurred wings, long legs and purplish brown, green and black coloring. They feed upon insects. For their funny little babies they build floating nests.

Do you know what animal acts like a musician? It is a small burrowing crab. The male crab has an enormous brightly colored front claw on the right side which he waves as a fiddler does his bow.

BELIEVES INTELLIGENT BEINGS INHABIT MARS

A strange, bluish light seen flashing on Mars recently by Robert Damion, French astronomer, leads him to believe that intelligent beings on Mars are trying to signal the earth.

Other astronomers have also reported flashing lights on the red planet, and one even went so far as to suggest a way to answer the signals, if signals they be.

He would cover several square miles with powerful electric light bulbs hooked up in such a manner that letters, words and symbols could be flashed across space.

Mars is now believed to be more like the earth than most astronomers have been willing to admit. Dr. E. C. Slipper, of Lowell University, Flagstaff, Ariz., finds that our red neighbor not only has a deep atmosphere, but that this atmosphere contains much water vapor. He has photographed vast clouds, light falls of snow and great dust storms that rage across the planet from equator to poles. These facts lead him to believe that life may exist on Mars, after all.

American comic strips are printed in 32 foreign languages and appear in newspapers in most of the nations of the world.

A merry heart maketh a cheerful countenance: but by sorrow of the heart the spirit is broken.—Proverbs 15:13.

The first tramp sat up.
"That's different," he admitted. "Now you're talking real dough."

No Luck Yet

Insurance Salesman—but surely you are not going to let your husband's insurance lapse after all this time?
Mrs. Burbank—I'll say I am. I've paid no yet for nine years and I ain't had no luck yet.

Heck of a Big Inkstand

A witness in a suit concerning the number of cubic yards of some rock that had been removed showed little knowledge of what a cubic yard meant.
To help him out, the judge said:

"Assume this inkstand to be three feet across the top this way and three feet that way and three feet in height.
What would you call it?"

"Well, your Honor," said the witness in a tone of deep concern, "I'd say it was a heck of a big inkstand."

Poppin' the Question

The young countryman was calling on his girl. He had been sparking her for three years without ever coming near a proposal. But this time the moonlight got in its work. About one o'clock in the morning he had got around to saying, "Mary, you know I gotta piece o' land. Next year I'm plannin' to build a little house on it an'
..." There he stuck.

Just then the girl's father yelled from the house, "Mary, is that young man thar yet?"

"No, Pa," the girl replied, "but he's gettin' thar."

Brain Food

"Tell me why," said an Englishman to an American friend, "you Yankees generally get along well in business while many Englishmen fail."

"Brains," was the reply. "You should eat more fish. Give me five dollars and I'll get you some of the fish my wife gets for me. Eat it and then see how fast your brain works."

The Englishman agreed. Next day he met his friend again.

"How did you get on?" asked the Yankee.

"Well, it was splendid fish."

"Do you feel any different?"

"No, I can't say I feel any different, but five dollars was a lot for a piece of fish, wasn't it?"

"There you are," said the Yankee.
"your brain is beginning to work already."

Backing Up to Barnesville

The conductor had become irritated at an old lady, unused to traveling, who kept asking him how far it was to Barnesville, and finally he said:

"Madam, I'll tell you when we get there."

But he forgot to tell her, and the train was a mile beyond Barnesville before he remembered. Ashamed of himself, he pulled the emergency cord and had the train backed up to Barnesville.

Approaching the old lady,
he remarked, "Here we are at Barnesville. Quick, please, I'll help you with your baggage."

"Oh, thank you," said the old lady, complacently, "but I'm not getting off here. My daughter told me when I got to Barnesville it would be time to take another pill."

Three Good Reasons

Thus wrote the editor of the Moreland, Kansas, Monitor:

"I have been criticized quite a little by some of the town 'smart Alecks' for using poor grammar. Now, I have three good reasons for this.
In the first place, I don't know any better. Second, half of you wouldn't understand it if I did use it. Third, if I did speak and write correctly, I might be managing some big New York paper at a large salary and you townspeople and farmers would lose the best editor in Graham county."

"A Orator"

A negro met a friend all toggled out and asked him how come all the prosperity.

"I've got a profession, boy," said the dressed-up one.

"What is it?"

"What is an orator?"

"You mean yo don't know what a orator is? Well, I'll tell yo. If yo was to walk up to a ordinary nigger an' ask him how much was two and two, he'd say 'fo,' but if you was to ask one of us orators he'd say, 'When in de cou'se of human events it becomes nessary to take de numeral ob de second denom-eration and add it to de figger two, I says unto yo an'
I says it widout fear ob successful contradichsun, dat de result am fo.' Dat's a orator."

Poultry Facts

By F. W. KAZMEIER,
Bryan, Texas

Writing under the title, "Timely Tips," A. P. Loomis, superintendent of the Poultry Tribune's experimental farm, says:

"Give a worm treatment to both the old hens and the range pullets.

"Feed a balanced ration on range for proper balanced maturity.

"Grill some source of lime and sprinkle to the growing pullets as well as the layers.

"Fight lice and mites everlastingly.

"Store eggs three times a day and gather in cool cellar below 68 degrees Fahrenheit.

"Cull sufficiently to keep production at 50 per cent or more during summer in flocks which are well fed and managed.

"To care for the eggs from just the average farm flock, the cellar of your home is fine, but do use wire egg baskets. Don't let the eggs set in hot wooden or metal pails in which they can't cool quickly.

"Failure to receive top prices for eggs may be due to several things, but mainly to four: poor quality, because of breeding or improper handling of eggs on the farm; poor grading; poor packing; or failure to choose a receiver or dealer who recognizes and pays for quality in eggs.

"On an average, about 40 per cent of the hens stop laying between June 15 and September 1.
If the culls are removed during this period rather than after October 1, about one and one-half tons of feed will be saved on a flock of 1,000 birds.

"This is the time of year when lice multiply fast and irritate the layers by gnawing at the base of the feathers. At night, the blood sucking mites which live on filthy perches travel up on the bird's body to make life miserable.

"Put a thin strip of nicotine sulphate on the perches about a half hour before the birds go to roost to kill lice, and paint the perches and dropping boards with carbolineum to destroy the mites."

Last year the Post Office Department estimated that more than 20,000,000 pieces of mail, weighing more than 7,500,000 pounds, were sent free. Most of it is government mail.

More than $310,000,000 in

THE COAT THAT SQUEALED OR THE CAPTURE OF COSTELLO, THE INTERNATIONAL FORGER

OH, MR. PURVIS, WOULDN'T YOU TELL US HOW YOU CAPTURED COSTELLO,
THE INTERNATIONAL FORGER?

ALL RIGHT, PAUL AND JOAN...
COSTELLO HAD ALWAYS PLAYED A LONE HAND. THE G-MEN AND I WERE HOT ON HIS TRAIL WHEN WE SUDDENLY CAME UPON HIS CAR, ABANDONED NEAR A DESERTED FARMHOUSE...

YES, DO!

LOOK, CHIEF! COSTELLO LEFT HIS COAT. HE MUST HAVE BEEN IN A HURRY.

HM, THAT COAT IS ABOUT COSTELLO'S
SIZE... BUT IT'S A WOMAN'S COAT!

G-MEN are trained to observe small and often unnoticed details. Melvin Purvis could tell that it was a woman's coat because of this small, but important detail: women's coats always have the buttons on the left (see left, above), men's coats on right (above, right). The coat found in the car had THE BUTTONS ON THE LEFT.

SO COSTELLO WASN'T PLAYING A LONE HAND!
WE'LL HUNT FOR THAT WOMAN--SHE'LL LEAD US TO COSTELLO!

OKAY! AND WE'LL BEGIN BY SEARCHING THAT FARMHOUSE FOR CLUES!

ALL RIGHT, BUT I'VE LEARNED THAT CROOKS NEVER CHANGE THEIR HABITS--MY HUNCH IS THERE ISN'T ANY HUNCH!
KEEP ON DOWN THE HIGHWAY!

I GAVE MY SUPER-CHARGED MOTOR
ALL IT HAD, AND AFTER RACING TEN MILES DOWN THE HIGHWAY, CAME UPON A SERVICE STATION. A WOMAN
IN A BIG OPEN CAR HAD JUST BOUGHT GAS...

WELL, MR. LONE HAND COSTELLO--YOU MIGHT HAVE FOOLED US WITH THAT DISGUISE, BUT IN YOUR HASTE YOU LEFT YOUR WOMAN'S COAT BEHIND--AND IT SQUEALED ON YOU!

I MIGHTA KNOWN I COULDN'T GET AWAY FROM TH' G-MEN!

WELL, THAT'S HOW WE CAPTURED
COSTELLO. YOU BET I'LL HAVE SOME MORE POST

BLAZING GUNS LEAVE ONE DEAD IN STREET

CHAS. KIRK IS SHOT TO DEATH JOHN MEEKS IS WOUNDED

Charlie Kirk, 44, was shot to death in a gun battle shortly after 11 o'clock on Saturday night at a house one block south of the Santa Fe rails near the mill of the Cameron Cotton Oil Company.

John Meeks, brother in law of Kirk, surrendered to officers a few moments after the roar of gunfire had died out in the half deserted street. Meeks was wounded three times, one bullet entering the right leg below the knee, shattering the bone. Two other flesh wounds in the same leg were sustained.

He was taken to the Cameron Hospital by Constable B. F. Bailey, who with night policeman John Eanes, arrived at the scene of the gun fight shortly after the men had settled their quarrel in the fashion of the old west. Meeks sat in his own car bleeding from the wounds inflicted by shot from the blazing gun held in the hand of Kirk.

Kirk Face Down

Kirk lay face down in the street near his own car with a 44 calibre pistol in his hand. Four bullets had pierced his body. One bullet pierced the neck from the right side, one in the center of the chest, another through the right hip and a fourth through the right side of the abdomen. Taken from the street a short time after the firing had ceased Kirk was dead before the ambulance reached the hospital. It was reported that Meeks will recover from his wounds.

Kirk's Head Beaten

Officers turned over to Criminal District Attorney Camp a 45 calibre Colt revolver from which six shells had been fired. After Kirk was shot down Meeks was said to have beat him about the head. The revolver was bloody, its handle plates and cylinder missing. The trigger guard was torn loose and warped. Five shells had been fired from the revolver carried by Kirk. Two bullet holes were found in Kirk's car.

Shooting at Keith Home

The men shot it out in the street near the Keith home. Mrs. Kirk, estranged wife of the dead man, was residing temporary with her parents. Mrs. Meeks is a sister of Mrs. Kirk. In company with John Meeks they had attended a dance at Skeeix and were returning home, driving up to the front gate, parking the car. Kirk drove up a few moments later, stopping his car a short distance from the Meeks machine. Buddy Keith, brother of Mrs. Meeks said he heard Kirk say to Meeks, as he got out of his car, "you have been meddling with my affairs too much." The shooting followed.

Eleven Shots Fired

Kirk is said to have stepped from his car, leaving the wheel and going to the rear of it as Meeks got out and met him. The cars were parked in a position that left the Meeks car free of the range of the fire. Judging from the wounds inflicted in the right leg of Meeks, it is believed that Kirk fired three shots after he fell to the street. Apparently two shots directed at Meeks went wild. Two shots fired by Meeks entered the Kirk car. Kirk was alone in his car. There were several eye witnesses to the shooting, it was reported by officers. Residents near the scene of the shooting were first attracted by the discussion that preceded the shooting. Both men began firing and the shots from the guns alternated their tone as each separate calibre spoke.

Buried at Liberty

Funeral services for Kirk were held Sunday afternoon at 5 o'clock at the little church on the banks of Liberty Creek close to the farms where the Kirk families were reared. Rev. O. C. Acrey, pastor of the Presbyterian Church, conducted the services. Interment was made in Liberty cemetery.

Kirk was born ten miles east of Cameron. He is survived by his widow, and a former wife and four children, three sons and a daughter as follows: J. L. B. L., J. B. Kirk and Gladine Kirk all of Cameron; five brothers, W. C. Kirk, T. J. Kirk, W. H. Kirk, G. G. Kirk and Jim Kirk, all of Cameron and five sisters, Mrs. S. C. Malone, Mrs. John Miles, Mrs. T. E. Malone, Mrs. Harm Beacham and Mrs. Henry Hill.

"Shall I go to college?" has been a question asked by many thousands of young people during recent weeks, and some are still asking it. The colleges as usual will take in great entering classes.

Many of these young people entertain misconceptions about what a college degree will do for them. They have read statistics showing that the average college graduate earns more money than others. But it should also be considered that the young people who go through college usually hold a higher rank as students than those who do not make the attempt. If these young people never entered any college hall, they would still be earning more money in 10 years than the average young person. Their superior ability to learn, indicates they have superior ability to become proficient in the occupations they enter.

If a student has just average ability at book learning, it is not at all certain that the college course is worth the money and sacrifice it will cost. Of course if his family can afford to send him, he can gain social advantages from the course. He will learn useful things, provided he makes a real effort to study, and does not waste his time on too much sporting and social life.

Every day life is a college, as well as the scholastic halls of some fine institution. The boy or girl who is determined to learn can learn anywhere. Every newspaper is an instructor that can teach him much. The young person who reads good magazines and newspapers carefully, and tries to learn all they have to teach him, will know more in ten years than a college student who takes his courses merely for social and athletic reasons.

According to the older folks, young people are always happy and care free. They are the marvelous gift of youth and under ordinary conditions have many years of health and activity to look forward to. They are not supposed to be troubled with anxious fears for the future, or premonitions of the final end of life.

In a poem by Theresa Heiburn, a different view of youth is expressed. "I can see her eyes grey with alarm," it reads. In imaginative language it pictures the "hooded future" as clutching at the arm of youth, expressing the thought that young people do not worry about their future prospects.

Perhaps this is not surprising. When young people formerly went out into the world, they were practically sure of finding work at once. (Continued on page 12)

TWO MURDER CHARGES ARE FILED IN MILAM

Within two days time two murder charges were filed, one Monday following death of Frank Gonzales, a Mexican, who died Monday following a shooting on Saturday night at 11 o'clock in which Gonzales was shot in the back. Another Mexican, Sebero Correa, was charged with the shooting of Gonzales, on the Batte farm near the Holtzclaw bridge.

Murder charges were filed Sunday against John Meeks for the fatal shooting of his brother-in-law, Charlie Kirk, Saturday night in Cameron.

Farmers Day Here Proves Big Card For Baldwin Store

Farmers day here Friday, August 7 was one of the big events of the year with Mauritz-Baldwin Corporation, dealers in McCormick-Deering farm machinery.

A free picture show giving the progress of farming was held in the forenoon. The tractor and implement display was held in the building of the company and in the street west of the plant.

At noon Mr. Baldwin served refreshments. A large crowd of farmers visited the displays. Mr. Baldwin was being congratulated on every side for his successful entertainment that brought many visitors to Cameron.

$76.20 Premium For First Bale Here

Premium on the first bale ginned in Cameron on Tuesday of last week totaled $72.60 it was announced by Secretary Paden of the Chamber of Commerce.

The premium was approximately one half cash and one half merchandise.

Cotton picking was getting under way here this week. The heat wave of the past few days has done much to destroy the plant and to damage immature bolls.

Grill Garden Opens In Cameron; Is Well Arranged Center

The Silver Grill Garden recently opened by Jack Owings adjacent to the Silver Grill has greatly improved entertainment facilities in Cameron and gives an added civic touch to a large block of land reclaimed for the pleasure spot.

The garden is brilliantly lighted with drive-in facilities. Booths are placed at vantage points around the space where sandwiches and cold beer and soft drinks are served. Mr. Owings said the garden would at all times cater to families who desire wholesome entertainment and a good cafe menu.

MRS. J. E. BELL DIES MONDAY IN PT. ARTHUR

Mrs. J. E. Bell, 54, died Monday night in Port Arthur, where she had been for the past two months with her grandchildren, following the death of her daughter, Mrs. A. E. Buckland two months ago.

The remains of Mrs. Bell were brought to Cameron Tuesday afternoon and burial was made in the Little River cemetery near Cameron. Funeral services were held from the First Baptist Church Wednesday at 3 p. m. with Rev. Vernon G. Miles, officiating.

Mrs. Bell had lived in Cameron for many years. She was born and reared in this county. She was a member of the Baptist church and a former Sunday School teacher.

Surviving are her husband, four daughters, Mrs. A. L. Landers, Freeport; Mrs. R. P. Daniels, Port Arthur; Mrs. Joe Ann Wilkerson, Houston; and Miss Clara Bell, Cameron; three sons, Edward and Emmett Bell, Port Arthur and Charles Bell, Cameron, and five grand children.

Mrs. Bell had been ill five weeks prior to her death. She was well known and beloved in Cameron.

Dr. Eduard Rischar Named on Important Medical Committee

Dr. Eduard Rischar has been appointed by Dr. H. R. Dudgeon, President of the State Medical Association of Texas, as a member of the committee on "Medical Education and Hospitals" for the state of Texas.

The duties of this committee consist primarily of making a study of Medical Education and Hospitals and submitting recommendations to the State Medical Association.

BUDGET HEARING

Notice is hereby given that a public hearing will be held on the proposed budget for Milam County, Tuesday August 18, 1936, at 3 p. m. in the Court House at Cameron, Texas. All interested persons are invited to attend the hearing.

Jeff T. Kemp, County Judge Milam County.

ELECTIVE SYSTEM TICKET DEFEATED

Members of the Cameron School Board were returned to office by smashing majorities on Tuesday when the people cast their ballots in the first poll here to name their school officials by popular vote.

Candidates sponsored by the Committee for the elective system were defeated. H. M. Akers, running for the vacancy on the board created by the decision of Dr. W. R. Newton not to offer in view of his nomination for State Senator, got the support of both sides, being placed on the ballot by request from board members as well as the committee for elective system. He led the ticket with 600 votes.

J. W. Haygood ran within 66 votes of F. S. Lesovsky to poll the highest vote of any candidate defeated. The school board personnel will be as follows: J. C. Martin, Rush Thomas, Mrs. G. A. McDermott, F. S. Lesovsky, H. H. Stedman, Dr. T. E. Crump and H. M. Akers.

Controversy over election of faculty members and the dismissal of two members of the faculty, led to an election here in May to determine whether trustees be elected or appointed. A special effort was made to vote from the board members of the Teachers Committee as a result of the disagreements arising over administrative details of the board.

When the election was held the elective system won by 2 majority. In the election held here Tuesday 672 votes were cast. The result was believed to be a definite reversal of sentiment and a possible forerunner of a return to the appointive system to avoid repetition of political turmoil each year in the election of trustees.

Jerry Mikula Accepts Place With Grabein Chevrolet Company

Jerry Mikula, widely known local mechanic, has accepted a position with the Grabein Chevrolet Company in Cameron. He was formerly with the Michalka Motor Company.

Mr. Mikula has placed an advertisement in the Herald telling his friends that he has accepted the place with the Chevrolet Company. Mr. Mikula is recognized as an outstanding automobile mechanic.

Four Houses Entered In Rockdale During Week's Crime Wave

Four homes were burglarized in Rockdale Saturday night to complete an unusual week end crime wave in Milam County. Criminal District Attorney Camp was busy with investigations ranging from misdemeanor cases to murder charges.

Among the victims in the Rockdale burglaries was Mayor E. A. Camp who lost $30 to the burglar. Four homes were entered in one block.

No arrests have been made but indications are the job was done by a local thief, it was said.

Takes Place With Chevrolet Company

Make McDermott has accepted a position with the Grabein Chevrolet Company as assistant bookkeeper.

Mr. McDermott was born and reared in Cameron, graduated at Yoe high school and has many friends here who will be glad to know he has accepted this position. He will be assistant to Homer M-Lane in the offices of the Company.

FIRST LIQUOR RAID CASE STIRS MILAM COUNTY

In the first arrests for alleged breach of the new liquor laws in Milam county, Texas Rangers in co-operation with Sheriff R. M. Kennedy and local officers on last Thursday night raided the Orange Grill in Rockdale, arrested Wiley Kirk, its proprietor and Claudia Touchstone, assistant.

As a result of the raid charges of operating a gambling house and selling liquors by the drink in violation of the state laws, have been filed against Kirk.

Claudia Touchstone is held under similar charges. Bond in the sum of 1000 was set for Kirk on the gambling charge and $500 on the liquor charge. Bond for the woman was filed at $750 and $400.

Ernest Johnson, negro porter, will also be charged along with Kirk and the white woman, it was announced (Continued on page 12)

Newton Thanks People For Senate Nomination

Dr. W. R. Newton, nominee of the Democratic party for State Senator from the 13th District, has written a letter of thanks to the Cameron Herald for the people of the county. He is deeply grateful to the people of the entire district, and especially to the Cameron Herald:

You have no doubt been advised that my opponent, Mr. Bert Ford, has withdrawn from the Senatorial race of the 13th Senatorial District. He has requested that his name not appear on the ballot in the run off on August 22.

I want to thank you a thousand times for your kindness to me throughout my campaign. I am thanking you and all the voters of the 13th Senatorial District. To you and the voters of the 13th Senatorial District, I owe an everlasting debt of gratitude which I shall try to repay in faithful, sincere service to the people of Texas as your Senator.

With every good wish, I am,

Sincerely Yours,

A Joint Resolution

Proposing an amendment to Section 11 of Article IV of the Constitution of the State of Texas, so as to provide for a Board of Pardons and Paroles, composed of three members, whose terms of office shall be for a period of six years, one to be appointed by the Governor, one by the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of the State of Texas, and one by the presiding Justice of the Court of Criminal Appeals, such appointments to be with the advice and consent of two-thirds of the Senate present; and so as to provide that the Governor of the state shall have the power on the recommendation and advice of the majority of the Board of Pardons and Paroles to grant reprieves, commutations of punishment and pardons and to remit fines and forfeitures, and, with the advice and consent of the Legislature, to grant reprieves, commutations of punishment and pardons in cases of treason; and to provide that the Governor shall have power to grant one reprieve in any capital case not to exceed thirty (30) days; and shall have the power to revoke paroles and conditional pardons; and to provide that the legislature shall have authority to regulate procedure before the Board and to enact tional amendment, and to make and parole laws; and to provide for an election for such proposed constitution appropriation therefor.

Be It Resolved By the Legislature of the State of Texas:

Section 1. That Section 11 of Article IV of the Constitution of the State of Texas be amended so as hereafter to read as follows:

Section 11. There is hereby created a Board of Pardons and Paroles, to be composed of three members, who shall have been resident citizens of the State of Texas for a period of not less than 2 years immediately preceding such appointment, each of whom shall hold office for a term of six years; provided that of the members of the first board appointed, one shall serve for two years, one for four years and one for six years from the first day of February, 1937, and they shall cast lots for their respective terms. One member of said Board shall be appointed by the Governor, one member by the Chief Justice of the supreme Court of the State of Texas, and one member by the presiding Justice of the Court of Criminal Appeals; the appointments of all members of said Board shall be made with the advice and consent of two thirds of the Senate present. Each vacancy shall be filled by the respective appointing power that theretofore made the appointment to such position and the appointive powers shall have the authority to make recess appointments until the convening of the Senate.

In all criminal cases, except treason and impeachment, the Governor shall have power, after conviction, on the written signed recommendation and advice of the Board of Pardons and Paroles, or a majority thereof, to grant reprieves and commutations of punishment and pardons; and under such rules as the Legislature may prescribe, and upon the written recommendation and advice of a majority of the Board of Pardons and Paroles, he shall have the power to remit fines and forfeitures. The Governor shall have the power to grant one reprieve in any capital case for a period not to exceed thirty (30) days; and he shall have the power to revoke paroles and conditional pardons. With the advice and consent of the Legislature, he may grant reprieves, commutations of punishment and pardons in cases of treason.

The Legislature shall have power to regulate procedure before the Board of Pardons and Paroles and shall require it to keep record of its actions and reasons therefor, and shall have authority to enact parole laws."

Section 2. The foregoing constitutional amendment shall be submitted to the electors of this state who are qualified to vote on proposed constitutional amendments at the general election to be held on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November, A. D. 1936, at which election each ballot shall have printed thereon the words:

"For the amendment of Section 11 of Article IV of the Constitution of the State of Texas, so as to provide for a Board of Pardons and Paroles, and to make the Governor's pardoning power subject to the recommendation of said Board, except in cases of treason the Governor may grant reprieves, commutations and pardons with the advice and consent of the Legislature.

"Against the amendment of Section 11 of Article IV of the Constitution of the State of Texas, so as to provide for a Board of Pardons and Paroles, and to make the Governor's pardoning power subject to recommendation of said Board, except in cases of treason the Governor may grant reprieves, commutations and pardons with the advice and consent of the Legislature."

Each voter shall strike out with pen or pencil the clause which does not indicate his desire regarding the above proposed amendment.

Section 3. The Governor is hereby directed to issue the necessary proclamation for said election, and to have the above proposed amendment published in the manner and for the time required by the Constitution and laws of this State.

Sec. 4. The sum of Five Thousand ($5,000.00) Dollars, or so much thereof as may be necessary, is hereby appropriated out of the funds in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated to pay the expenses of such publication and election.

The above is a true and correct copy.

News From MINERVA

On Tuesday evening of last week the scheduled double-header of the city softball league was played with Minerva winning a hard fought battle from the Cameron Icers by a score of 12 to 10. The second game saw the Coca cola boys win an easy game from the Horned Frogs. On Wednesday evening the Cameron girls defeated the Minerva girls by a score of 21 to 17 in a battle which marked some very good playing by both teams. Following that a grudge game between the Enterprise and Athletic Council was won easily by the Athletic Council. The games seem to be proving their popularity by the crowd of fans who turn out for each game.

Why Gulf is the Gas for August

WHY NOT BEAT AUGUST HEAT by driving someplace for a swim? And if you want to keep your gas bills down, don't forget you need a fuel with a formula that fits hot weather. Otherwise your gas doesn't burn completely—part of it escapes through the exhaust unburned, wasted. Stick to That Good Gulf in August—it's "Kept in Step with the Calendar"—specially refined for summer driving. All of it goes to work, none of it goes to waste. Try Gulf and see!

H. I. R. NO. 23 A Joint Resolution

proposing an Amendment to the Constitution authorizing the Legislature to provide for Workmen's Compensation Insurance for employees of the State and authorizing the Legislature to provide for the payment of premiums on such policies of insurance; providing the State shall never be required to purchase insurance for any employees; providing for the necessary publication and election; making an appropriation to pay for same.

BE IT RESOLVED BY THE LEGISLATURE OF THE STATE OF TEXAS:

Section 1. That Article 2 of the Constitution of the State of Texas be amended by adding thereto a new Section to be known as Section 59, to read as follows:

"Section 59. The Legislature shall have power to pass such laws as may be necessary to provide for Workmen's Compensation Insurance for such State employees, as in its judgment is necessary or required; and to provide for the payment of all costs, charges, and premiums on such policies of insurance; providing the State shall never be required to purchase insurance for any employee."

Sec. 2 The foregoing Constitutional Amendment shall be submitted to a vote of the qualified electors of this state on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November, 1936, at which election all voters favoring said proposed Amendment shall write or have printed on their ballots the words:

"For the Amendment authorizing the Legislature to provide for the payment of Workmen's Compensation Insurance for employees of the State."

And all those opposed shall write or have printed on their ballots the words:

"Against the Amendment authorizing the Legislature to provide for the payment of Workman's Compensation Insurance for employees of the State."

Sec. 3. The Governor of the State of Texas is hereby directed to issue the necessary proclamation for said election and have same published, as required by the Constitution for Amendments.

Sec. 4. The sum of Five Thousand Dollars ($5,000.00) or so much thereof as may be necessary, is hereby appropriated out of any funds in the Treasury of the State, not otherwise appropriated, to pay the expenses of such publication and election.

The above is a true and correct copy.

SAGA OF AN EMPIRE AT TEXAS CENTENNIAL

DALLAS, Texas, July.—The Cavalcade of Texas, saga of the building of a mighty empire from a "wild and barbarous land," recreates the splendor, courage and faith of the past at the Texas Centennial Exposition. Top from left to right, Phil Lerner as Stephen F. Austin; the landing of the Cavalier Le Sieur de La Salle at Matagorda; Sam Houston, Texas Liberator, played by Paul Moore; second row, grand finale on the largest stage in the world; stage coach of the early pioneers; bottom row, the Battle of the Alamo; John Christopher Columbus Hill before General Ampudia at the surrender of Mier Expedition; and Neila Goodelle, singing star, going native on the Cavalcade set with a Chief of the Tejas Indians.

B. P. PUGH, 76, BURIED IN SALTY CEMETERY

B. P. Pugh, 76, native of Alabama, and pioneer citizen of Milam county, died at his home three miles north of Cameron Monday morning, August 10, 1936.

He had been in declining health for a number of years, but in recent months had lost in strength. The end came early Monday after his condition became suddenly worse on Sunday preceding his death.

When word was received in the city that B. P. Pugh had died there was universal expressions of sorrow from many who for years had known him as a citizen and friend. He had been prominent as a farmer and citizen of Milam county for almost half a century.

Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the First Presbyterian Church in Cameron with the pastor, Rev. O. C. Acree, conducting the services, assisted by Rev. J. Coy Williams of the First Methodist church. The body of the pioneer was taken overland to Salty near Thorndale and interred in the family cemetery.

Mr. Pugh had been a resident of the county for many years. He was born and reared in Montgomery, Alabama, and came to Texas as a young man to cast his lot and to seek his fortune among the early settlers.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Pugh, three daughters, Mrs. G. W. Rogers, Salem; Mrs. A. D. Henderson, Calvert; Mrs. Curtis Moseley, Cameron; four sons, Giles, Ervin and William Pugh of Cameron and Marvin Pugh of Rockdale; and one sister, Mrs. Mattie Frazier of Hamilton, Texas.

Charlie Frank Green who has been quite ill at his home the past ten days is slightly improved and is able to sit up for a short time each day.

Dr. and Mrs. E. A. Kruse and family left Saturday for a trip to Old Mexico.

Sara McDermott was a business visitor at Wichita Falls the past week.

Local Parish to Celebrate 40th Year Of Priesthood For Pastor, Father Geo. Apel With Supper On Church Grounds Aug. 16

REV. GEO. APEL
Pastor of St. Monica's Church

Members of St. Monica's Parish in Cameron, will commemorate the 40th anniversary of the Rev. George Apel in the priesthood with the celebration on the church grounds Sunday, August 16.

The Rev. George Apel, the present pastor of St. Monica's church, was born in Hausen, Germany, on March 23, 1865. He attended the Parish school there until he reached the age of 14, then he attended a Mission Seminary in Holland until 1891.

He sailed for America and landed in Galveston in 1892. From Galveston he went to Cincinnati where he entered Mount St. Mary's of the West Seminary and completed his theological studies. He was ordained to the priesthood in St. Mary's Cathedral at Galveston on August 15, 1895, by Bishop Gallagher.

On October 15, 1896, he was appointed by Bishop Gallagher as assistant at St. Joseph's church at Galveston. He served there until November 1, 1898, and was then appointed to St. Peter's and St. Paul's Parish, Freisburg, which place he served for 12 years. On January 6, 1911, he was assigned to St. Joseph's church, Marlin, where he administered their affairs for 2 years. On July 14, 1913, he was appointed to St. Mary's, Plantersville, and served at this place for a period of 11 years. On July 19, 1924, he was assigned to St. Monica's Parish, Cameron, and on August 7, 1924, he took charge of its affairs.

During the period that Father Apel has been pastor at Cameron, a $50,000.00 church and a $15,000.00 school has been built.

A chicken and sausage supper will be served on the church grounds on Sunday night. Guests will be entertained with band music throughout the evening.

ALTWEIN TO PRISON FOR 20 YEAR TERM

Arthur Altwein was delivered to Huntsville state penitentiary Wednesday to start serving a 20 year sentence. He was convicted June 4 of the murder of his brother, Joe Altwein by shooting him at a fishing party on the San Gabriel river in Milam County on May 3.

Deputy Sheriff Clarence McCall took Altwein to Huntsville. Fritz Altwein of Temple, a brother of the convicted man, and Miss Bernice Simms, also of Temple, referred to as "Arthur's girl," accompanied Altwein and Deputy Sheriff McCall to the state prison.

CAMERON THEATRE, SUNDAY AND MONDAY, AUGUST 16 AND 17

CHURCHES

At the regular monthly meeting of the members of the First Spiritualist Church Thursday night, August 7th, nine delegates and nine alternates were elected to represent this church at the state Spiritualist Convention in September. The Convention will be held in Houston on September 3, 4, 5 and 6 at the Rice Hotel. The following will go from Cameron as delegates: Mrs. Sue Crouch, Mrs. Evelyn Worcester, Mrs. Alvin Dipple, Mrs. Tillie McLerran, Mrs. Carrie Meyer, Mrs. Mabel Lynch, Miss Emma Cannon and Mrs. Ross Kolha.

The Ladies' Aid of the First Spiritualist Church is sponsoring a social at the church building on Tuesday evening, August 18th. During the evening hour there will be three mediums there to give readings. Games of progressive 42 and other means of entertainment will be provided for the young people. The public is cordially invited to attend this social.

Mrs. Will Ford is a patient in the Cameron Hospital.

Henry G. Lehman

Makes the following statement to the voters of Milam, Burleson and Lee Counties:

It has been circulated that I, Henry G. Lehman, am against the Burial Association and that I want to break them up. It was even circulated that I helped sue them. This is a very unfair deal handed to me. I wish to say that I am not against any Burial Association and I think it is a good organization for the people if it is operated properly. I shall make it clear to the voters of Milam county that in November, 1935 a bill was introduced in the Legislature to take all burial associations out from under the Insurance Commissions. That is to say that the Insurance Commission would not have the authority or power to examine or inspect the burial associations to see if they were in good standing which was a protection for their members. When this bill was introduced into the House of Representatives I wired our Representative, Jesse James to leave it under the Insurance Commission.

This was done only with good intention for it was only a protection that I sought for all members taking insurance with any organization. In reply to our telegram Jesse James sent me a telegram which I have in my possession which reads as follows: "Henry Lehman, Giddings, Texas. Telegram received and in reply will state that I am in accordance with your views and will use my vote and influence to defeat bill." In other words, Mr. James approved my telegram and added that he would use his influence towards it. The party who circulated this report saw only fit to condemn me for doing wrong but could in no way tell that Mr. James wired us a telegram as stated above that he was in accordance with our views and that he will use his influence to defeat bill. Now, to be fair in all the dealings, the party that circulated this report was perhaps not informed of the contents of the entire telegram of Mr. James to us but only mentioned a part of it and only told what he did to suit his own purpose to defeat me.

Gleaned From Short Course Held at College Station

Have A Hobby

The spirit of helpfulness, friendliness and comradeship manifested by those in attendance at the Short Course was wonderful.

One of the lectures that I enjoyed most was "Have a Hobby," by Peggy Morris. Most of us have a hobby and like to ride it; we should be careful that it doesn't ride us. A hobby is something we do for our own satisfaction. It may be doing, making or acquiring something of special interest to us. It must be something that we like so much that we learn to do it well, the most satisfaction comes from being able to excel even our hopes. No one can tell a person what he should have for his hobby but suggestions may be made. One of the best acted in the lecture was that of a woman who said her hobby was that of "doing common things well."—Mrs. J. L. Rettig, Bethlehem Club.

Early History of Table Etiquette
One of the most interesting features of the 27th annual Short Course to me was the demonstration on table etiquette. We learned that centuries ago there were no dishes of any kind from which to eat. In those days they had no table manners at all. Gourd bowls were used to eat from. They ate with their hands in a very dirty sloppy manner. Due to this the napkin came into existence. But as time passed on, people improved upon these primitive methods, and as a result, we now have easy modern methods of table etiquette.—Mrs. John Wemberly, Briary Club.

Beauty Aids From the Pantry Shelf
One of the best lectures I attended while at Short Course was "Looking Your Best," by Miss Josephine Hodge.

Farm women think that being beautiful and attractive is expensive, and is not for us. Miss Hodge made it very plain to us that we can be beautiful and attractive with little expense.

Did you know: That cleanliness is the first aid to beauty

That one teaspoon of table salt in a glass of water is the best cleanser for the eyes, nose and throat.

That salt and soda mixed is the most excellent cleanser for the teeth, gums and tongue?

That hot sour lemonade is the best cleanser for the digestive tract?

That soda mixed with bath powder is very good for body odor?

That camphorized vasoline softens the hands

That the hands, wrist, and fingers should be exercised to make graceful hands?

That wrinkles can be removed by placing damp brown wrapping paper on the affected part?

GETS BOLIVIA POST

R. Henry Norweb of Cleveland, Ohio has been appointed by President Roosevelt to be minister to Bolivia. Mr. Norweb has been serving as counselor of the American embassy in Mexico City.

In Need of Rest

"A man wif a political job needs time foh rest," said Uncle Eben, "owin' to de way he overworked hisself gittin' it."

That blackheads, large pores, and wrinkles can be removed by applying the white of one egg and one teaspoon of salt?

You should be conservative in the color you choose in finger nail polish, lip stick and rouge.—Mrs. Emzie Tucker, Duncan Club.

Legends of Texas Shrubs

In telling legends of Texas shrubs, Miss Onah Jacks told why the holly is used as a Christmas flower. It was believed the crown of thorns Christ wore was made of holly. It was called holy tree in early days and was supposed to have supernatural power. For instance, if thrown at unruly animals it would serve to quiet them. From this we got the legend that if on Christmas night any one taking a wreath of holly can see the cattle kneel at midnight. It is also told that as Christ was on his way to Calvary a bird flew down and picked a thorn that was sticking in his head. The bird's breast feathers were stained with blood and so we have the robin red breast.—Mrs. W. C. Bean, Davilla-Friendship Club.

The Four Wishes

One of the things that impressed me most at the 27th Annual Short Course at A. & M. College was the wonderful way in which the Parliamentary Procedure was used by the Texas Home Demonstration Association staff members and the thousands of women who were present. These meetings were usually several thousand in attendance.

Another subject that was very interesting was "Four Wishes" by Miss Mildred Horton. "Every one who has a heart and mind has wishes," says Miss Horton. First wish for us all is "Security"—to own a home, live comfortable, and be satisfied. Second wish is "For Repose"—happiness and love. Third wish is for "New Experiences."

All young people should have a "Wishing Ring." All grown ups should have an understanding mind, Miss Horton tells us.—Mrs. Jesse Coward, Curry Club.

Child Training

Children are all so different that one set pattern of behavior can not be followed by all. Each mother must study her own child and make a pattern to fit his characteristics.

Each child is a raw piece of material, and it is the duty of the parents to mould the child into a useful life. And as Dr. Hubbard, president of the A. & M. College stated, "All that is good comes from the home; All that is bad most assuredly comes from the home."—Mrs. U. L. Pierce, Val Verde Club.

Of the many interesting lectures given during the Farmers Short Course, I believe the one on quilts was the most interesting to me.

As you know the quilts used in primitive days were skins because they were easier to get. The first quilting was done on petticoats. Quilts were and still are used for cover. But comforts are taking the place of quilts as cover and quilts are being used only for spreads.

The two types of quilts are pieced and applique. They are named for Presidents, States, the Bible and the home and include the choosing of materials, true patterns and workmanship.

Henry Ford is the greatest known quilt collector of old and odd quilts.—Miss Mayme Lois Lucas, Briary Club.

Meal Service

There are four ways in which to serve a meal.

1. The English style of service where the food is all served on the table.

2. The Russian style where the courses are served from the kitchen.—(Turn to page 8)

A Joint Resolution

proposing an Amendment to the Constitution authorizing the Legislature to provide for Workmen's Compensation Insurance for employees of the State and authorizing the Legislature to provide for the payment of premiums on such policies of insurance; providing the State shall never be required to purchase insurance for any employees; providing for the necessary publication and election; making an appropriation to pay for same.

BE IT RESOLVED BY THE LEGISLATURE OF THE STATE OF TEXAS:

Section 1. That Article 3 of the Constitution of the State of Texas be amended by adding thereto a new Section to be known as Section 59, to read as follows:

"Section 59. The Legislature shall have power to pass such laws as may be necessary to provide for Workmen's Compensation Insurance for such State employees, as in its judgment is necessary or required; and to provide for the payment of all costs, charges, and premiums on such policies of insurance; providing the State shall never be required to purchase insurance for any employee."

Sec. 2 The foregoing Constitutional Amendment shall be submitted to a vote of the qualified electors of this state on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November, 1936, at which election all voters favoring said proposed Amendment shall write or have printed on their ballots the words:

"For the Amendment authorizing the Legislature to provide for the payment of Workmen's Compensation Insurance for employees of the State."

And all those opposed shall write or have printed on their ballots the words:

"Against the Amendment authorizing the Legislature to provide for the payment of Workman's Compensation Insurance for employees of the State."

Sec. 3. The Governor of the State of Texas is hereby directed to issue the necessary proclamation for said election and have same published as required by the Constitution for Amendments.

Sec. 4. The sum of Five Thousand Dollars ($5,000.00) or so much thereof as may be necessary, is hereby appropriated out of any funds in the Treasury of the State, not otherwise appropriated, to pay the expenses of such publication and election.

The above is a true and correct copy.

R. B. STANFORD,
Secretary of State.

WALKER-LEWALLEN

Cameron friends of Milton Walker of Waco, are interested to know of his marriage to Miss Margaret Lewallen, also of Waco, on Sunday in Temple.

Rev. Jewell Mathews, pastor of the First Christian church of Temple and state chaplain of the Odd Fellows lodge performed the ceremony.

The bride, a niece of Mrs. Luther Sanders of Cameron, was attended by Miss Dorothy Mitchell, a student of Baylor University, Waco. Henderson Walker, who just recently moved from Cameron to Waco, was best man.

Mr. and Mrs. Walker left for a honeymoon to Yellowstone National Park, and will be back in Waco in 2 weeks.

The groom is the son of the late Quinn Walker, who served for many years as county surveyor of Milam County.

FAMILY REUNION

A family reunion was held at the J. T. Baldwin home on Sunday when they had as guests Mrs. Baldwin's mother, Mrs. P. S. Wilford of Huntsville; Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Baldwin of Huntsville, he a brother of Mr.

J. T. Baldwin and she a sister of Mrs. J. T. Baldwin; Mr. and Mrs. John Yelverton and family of Riverside, and Mrs. R. L. Valentine and daughter of San Benito. Mrs. Valentine and Mrs. Yelverton are sisters of Mrs. Baldwin and Miss Louise Giddings of Brenham, a friend of the family. A bountiful dinner, served picnic style, was enjoyed at the noon hour.

It seemed before I had taken half a bottle of Cardui I was stronger and was soon up and around."

Thousands of women testify Cardui benefited them. If it does not benefit YOU, consult a physician.

BUNCHED FIELD OF SEVEN IN STRETCH IN STORK DERBY

Mrs. Kenny in Lead With 12 Children in Race for $500,000 Prize.

Toronto, Ont.—A closely bunched field of contestants is nearing the finishing line in Toronto's famous $500,000 "stork derby"—so closely bunched that obstetrical dopesters still confess themselves unable to "spot" the winner.

The finishing line in the ten-year race will be reached at 4:30 p. m. on October 31 next, when the mother who has given birth to the largest number of children in York county since October, 1926, will become the legal heiress to the estate of the late Charles Vance Miller, eccentric Toronto lawyer and sportsman.

Unofficial figures at present give Mrs. Matthew Kenny the lead, with 12 children reported born within the 10-year period.

In Second Place

Second place at present is shared by Mrs. Stefania Darrigo and Mrs. Arthur Timleck, each of whom claim ten children. Mrs. Grace Bagnato and Mrs. John Nangle have nine each, and Mrs. Ambrose Harrison and Mrs. Gus Graziano eight.

These figures are not yet accepted as official. Mrs. Bagnato, for instance, challenges the standing of two of those who now appear to have the edge on her. She maintains that not all of Mrs. Kenny's children were born in York county—an essential condition laid down in the Miller will—and that one was born shortly before October 31, 1926, instead of shortly after. She also challenges Mrs. Darrigo's right to count three babies, two of them twins, who died after being prematurely born, and whose births, she says, are not registered in the archives. Registration of a birth is required under the will.

And even if the present figures are accepted as official, they are always subject to future obstetrical revision. Three of the leading contestants intimate that their state of health leads them to anticipate that their standing in the race will be advanced before the deadline is reached.

Some "Dark Horses"

And there are still "dark horses" to be reckoned with. Mrs. Kenny did not declare herself in the contest until more than eight of its ten years had elapsed; said she hadn't heard of it before.

No one considers the possibility of such a billion-to-one shot as the birth of quintuplets to any of the contenders in the race, but several of them have already given birth to twins, and might conceivably do so again, before the end of October. Even triplets are not outside the realm of speculation.

More recently the Ontario government moved to set aside the will and appropriate the $500,000 for charitable and educational purposes, contending that it would produce greater benefit in this way than if bestowed "capriciously" according to the terms of the will.

The province argues that the "stork marathon" might encourage both fraud and immorality—for the will does not stipulate that the winner must be a married woman.

A storm of public indignation arose against the government's proposal, however, and legal experts warned that a dangerous precedent would be created if the government interfered with the provisions of a will which the courts had pronounced valid. The province finally abandoned its plan.

Horror of Dogs Sends

Elderly Man to Death

London.—With a little cur yapping at his heels, William Hitchings, an elderly man of Pennar, Pembroke Dock, his eyes dilated with fear, ran straight into the sea—vanished.

He had at last fallen a victim to the obsession that had pursued him for two decades—an unreasoning, unrelenting horror of dogs.

Hitchings couldn't stand the sight of dogs, his son, Frederick George Hitchings, testified at the inquest.

Back in 1915 two Alsations had jumped upon the older man and terrified him.

Since then, he had been victim of a mania—a constant terror of the canine world.

The conjunction of a little cur barking furiously and the sea meant death for Hitchings.

Mr. and Mrs. Homer McLane left Saturday night for Tulsa, Oklahoma, to visit Harleigh McGregor and family for a few days. Mr. McGregor, a former Cameron boy, is auditor for the Texas Company and is being transferred to Canada.

Voss Harlan of Branchville was in Cameron Friday on business.

To My Farmer Friends 20c Ginning To All

I am managing the R. L. Batte Round Bale Gin for the coming season and it has always been the policy of this gin to gin for the same price set by all the other Cameron gins for ginning. This was justice for all, but for several years, we found out later, that there were special concessions made by some ginners, such as paying for hauling to their gins; hauling cotton themselves for certain customers free; loaning trailers, etc., that caused us to lose customers. We have decided to make the low price of 20c per 100 pounds for ginning any and all seed cotton brought to our gin and to meet all competition at a lower price for ginning should any one decide to gin cheaper and assure you that we will keep seed prices up as high as the highest. Bagging and ties will be furnished at a competitive price and may be cheaper. All cotton will be delivered to the yards and compress free. Will give you quick and efficient service. It is not our intention to run a cut-throat business, but to gin for all farmers at the price given by others to a favored few. Bring me your ginning.

DANGER IS FEARED FROM HUGE METEOR

Millions May Die in Crash, Scientists Say.

Los Angeles.—A mighty mass of rock and metal crashing into the earth from outer space at the terrific speed of ten to fifty miles per second!

Whole cities and perhaps states laid waste by the impact, the shock of which might bring death to millions of persons!

That is possible but not probable, according to members of the Society for Research on Meteorites.

Scientists and lay members of this organization, who have a common interest in charting the mysteries of outer space, have many strange stories to tell about what they have found and hope to find while studying meteorites.

For instance Dr. Frederick C. Leonard, president of the society, who is chairman of the department of astronomy, University of California, at Los Angeles, says that tens of millions of meteors are attracted daily to the earth.

"All but infinitesimal fractions of this horde," he said, "are volatilized before they can penetrate to the earth's surface, as a result of the high temperatures to which they are heated by the friction they generate with the air—for the average meteor is little more than a speck of cosmic dust.

"If, however, the original mass of the celestial intruder is sufficient to enable it to escape total consumption in the atmosphere, it arrives on the earth's surface partially intact and thus becomes technically a meteorite.

"Probably from 100 to 400 meteorites fall upon the earth every year; but since three-fourths of the earth's surface is covered by water and much of the remainder is uninhabited or inaccessible, only a very small minority of the meteorites that actually reach the earth are ever recovered."

The largest one of historical times devastated an area of 10,000 square miles in Siberia in 1908, according to members of the society.

Lightning Took Negro's Fingerprints in Oregon

South Bend, Ore.—A set of human fingerprints which were recorded by lightning on a hotel window here thirty years ago are still visible today.

The fingerprints, according to "old-timers," are those of a Negro porter named Fletcher Gorman. He worked at the hotel in 1906.

A thunder shower blew up one afternoon while Gorman was talking with a friend on the hotel porch. An unusually bright flash of lightning startled the porter and he shrank back against the wall, placing his hand on the wet window pane. The next streak of lightning struck him.

After the excitement had died down the imprint of Gorman's hand was noticed on the glass. Since that time innumerable attempts have been made to wash off the imprint, but all of them have been useless.

Scottie Puppy in Hole, Spaniel Saves His Pal

Seattle.—Though he could only bark over the situation, a four-year-old cocker spaniel saved the life of its friend, a black Scottie pup.

Both dogs were accustomed to playing in the yard of the Dwight Ware residence. But the pup slipped in a deep water-filled hole 200 yards from the home. The spaniel immediately began barking, but could not attract any attention. It started for the house where it finally brought out Mrs. Ware.

Racing between the house and the hole, barking excitedly, the spaniel drew his mistress to the edge of the pool. She rescued the pup.

Miss Fulcrod Out Of Office For Month

Miss Pearl Fulcrod is leaving Cameron this week for a vacation at Boulder, Colorado. She announced that her office here would be closed for the period of her stay in the west.

She will be back in her office within the next four weeks, she said. Her mother will go with her to Colorado.

ANOTHER PEACH STORY

About three dozen peaches weighing eleven ounces each, were produced from a three year old seedling in the garden of the Virgil Coward home at 703 West Main street, Cameron. The largest peach measured 10 1-2 inches in circumference and 2 inches in length.

Dan Tyson and family spent the week end in Dallas visiting relatives and attending the Texas Centennial.

Nervous, Weak Woman Soon All Right

"I had regular shaking spells from nervousness," writes Mrs. Cora Sanders, of Paragould, Ark. "I was all run-down and cramped at my time until I would have to go to bed. After my first bottle of Cardui, I was better. I kept taking Cardui and soon I was all right. The shaking quit and I did not cramp. I felt worlds better. I gave Cardui to my daughter who was in about the same condition and she was soon all right."

CARDUI

Thousands of women testify Cardui benefited them. If it does not benefit YOU, consult a physician.

McCormick-Deering No. 7 Enclosed-Gear Mower

WE are anxious to have all of our friends see the New McCormick-Deering No. 7 Enclosed-Gear Mower. We think it is one of the finest pieces of farm equipment we have ever sold!

Everybody who has seen it says they never had any idea that a mower could be built as this one is.

For example: The entire operating mechanism, including drive gears, differential, and countershafts, is assembled compactly in an oil-tight gear housing and runs in a bath of oil. There are four high-grade roller bearings. Operation is so smooth and noiseless that you can scarcely hear the light hum of the sickle!

Special oil seals at the ends of the main axle and fly-wheel shaft, and the oil-tight gear box prevent leakage and protect all working parts against the entrance of dirt and other abrasive materials. Floating action of cutter bar provides ample play without disturbing knife registration.

on or sideboard.

3. The compromise style which is a combination of the other two styles.

4. The American style is made of various combinations of all styles.

The English style being the most pleasant way where there are few persons to be served there are no waiters. The correct way is the easiest way after all. The mother should know table manners.

You may use a round or square table, which ever you have. If the table is varnished we may use doilies when serving a meal except for a dinner meal (and I mean the evening meal.) Unless table is finished nice you must use a spread, with silence cloth underneath. The oil cloth should never be used.

In setting the table the plate is placed one inch from the edge of the table; knives placed at right of the plate, sharp edge toward plate; the fork at left of plate, prongs up; spoons at right of knife; silver same distance apart and the handles in line with the plate; the glass of water is placed at tip of knife. The bread and butter plate should be placed at the tip of the fork. The napkin should be folded square and placed at the left of the fork with the open corner toward the fork.

In serving always stand at a person's left and remove from the right side. Chairs are placed so the front edge of the chair is in line with the hanging edge of the table cloth. There will be very little adjustment of chairs and much noise will be avoided.

Good manners are habits and the only way to acquire good table manners is by practice.—Mrs. U. L. Pierce, Val Verde Club.

Texas Mission Architecture

There were produced in this country two distinct types of architecture. In 1620 we have the beginning of the New England meeting house with its Palladian window, its portico and its spire. It is an inspiration resultant of the cruel domineering attitude of the people who left tyranny only to be more tyrannic than those from whom they ran away. Yet a beauty and reverence unsurpassed by any modern church. This Georgian type New England meeting house is found all along the Atlantic coast where that influence was felt.

The Spanish Mission Architecture is the product of a people seeking also freedom of worship. From Mexico and Texas to the Pacific coast only, 2,000 miles apart. Different environment, different heritage. Romanticism of Latin peoples in contrast to Austere England.—Mrs. H. L. Colbert, Bryant Station Club.

Favorite Sayings of Short Course Speakers

1. God created nature and then man above nature. The man created all the arts, some to be enjoyed, some to be used. Poetry is an art for both and the musical expression of man's attitude toward the arts of life.

2. Work is the only everlasting happiness. Unemployment is the arch Bishop of Depression. The U. S. will be a sick nation as long as the people are deprived of the employment they so desire.

3. Observe well dressed people searching out the cause or features of their well appearance. Do not dress like your friend does because it looks good on the friend. It may look terrible on you.

4. To be your age is all right but to be older than your age is unforgivable. Yet we should not try to be too far under our age.

5. A pleasing, uplifting, enlightening influence will make an indelible impression of value in the heart of the individual and in the estimation of neighbors and friends. (Tom Connally).

6. The improvement of sanitary conditions in poultry production is an outstanding need in Texas. With this improvement will come more livable chicks, better quality egg production and higher egg production.

7. Imagination has made possible the advance of civilization. Studying the imaginative expression of a child is an aid to the discovery of the child's ability. Parents fail to see in children's acts the things that they themselves do daily. Outward conformity is detrimental where there is inward rebellion.

8. We must remember that souls are more important than soils, and that folks are more important than farms.

MRS. HENRY ADAMS BURIED IN CAMERON

Funeral services for Mrs. Henry Adams, 40, were conducted from the Methodist church Monday morning at 10 o'clock, with Rev. J. Coy Williams, pastor, officiating. Interment was made in the Oak Hill cemetery.

Mrs. Adams had resided in Cameron for 16 years, and conducted a boarding house here for several years. She was born in Meeks, Bell county, reared and educated in that county. She was married in 1912 to Henry Adams, who with three children, Mrs. Robert Esslinger, Beatrice and Billy Bob Adams, survive.

Mrs. Adams died Saturday night at 11 o'clock in a local hospital after a week's illness.

Her father, D. C. Conner of Meeks with seven brothers, Archie, Floyd and Robert of Houston; Columbus and Newton of Three Rivers, Kenard and Milton of Meeks; and a sister Mrs. C. N. Allen, near Cameron, also survive.

YOUR GINNER

THE PLACE For SATISFACTION

TREACHEROUS MONTHS

Why do people "catch cold" more easily during winter than in summer? In most cases it is due to indoor living conditions.

The generally accepted theory of "a cold" is that you carry cold germs in your throat constantly. As soon as you become tired, overheated or chilled you are susceptible to attack. Any sudden change in temperature disturbs the heat-regulating apparatus of the body and the cold germ rises to the opportunity to undermine your health. Therefore, quick changes of temperature should be avoided.

The threat of the cold germ is limited during summer months largely because warm weather living habits make it exceedingly difficult for cold germs to become active. In summer, there is an adequate circulation of pure, warm air throughout the home. Since the temperature is approximately the same in each room during the warm weather season, your family is not subject to sudden changes.

The common cold germ is responsible for more than two hundred million illnesses each year.

On the other hand, UNLESS you provide adequate heat and proper circulation of pure, warm air in every room of the house during winter, sudden temperature changes are unavoidable. Members of your family go from a heated room into a cold hall or unheated adjoining room. Then shivering and chilled, they return to the heated room. Each time this happens during the winter season, they have unnecessarily subjected themselves to the vicious attack of the cold germ.

It is good health insurance to take the simple precaution of providing adequate heat and proper circulation of pure, warm air in every room in the house during cold weather. Use your home to the fullest this winter as you have during the past summer. You will find it of valuable assistance in protecting your family from America's Public Health Enemy Number One, the common cold germ.

At The THEATER In Cameron

By C. W. GJEDDE

MARCH OF TIME AUGUST 16 &
17 AT CAMERON THEATRE.

Every afternoon, somewhere in the U. S., is revived the pompous ceremonial of horse racing, the sport of kings. Today its pomp is but need-less formality to many who follow the races. For the U. S. public, racing is betting. This year a billion dollars has been wagered on horses, half of it illegally—a sum so vast it overshadows racing's $100,000,000 investment in tracks, farms, thousands of employees and blooded horses. Few people realize that betting is but an official sideline to racing's real purpose—the breeding of fine horses. Head of the U. S. racing is the Jockey Club of America, of which no jockey is a member, where no orders are taken but plenty given. Only fifty men are members, their sole purpose to protect the horse. For those who violate this code, the penalties are harsh. Jockeys who break betting rules may never ride again; trainers and owners who attempt chicanery are barred for life from racing. March of Time shows a famous case of track crookery and how the criminals were caught. Yearly the club spends thousands to police tracks and stables. Its racing rules are written into the law of twenty-one states. No horse can race unless registered with the Jockey Club; no track, no stable is ever far from this strange club's influence. Today with racing ranking as one of America's most popular sports spectacles, no man knows who gave the Jockey Club its right to rule U. S. racing, but no man can give a good reason why it should not.

"RHYTHM ON THE RANGE"

The thrills and fun of Madison Square Garden Rodeo; the atmosphere of the Old West brought up to date; fast stepping comedy by a cast of screen and radio experts, and melody ranging from cowboy songs to swing music go into Paramount's "Rhythm on the Range," hit musical which comes to the Cameron Theatre Sunday and Monday, August 16 and 17.

Featuring Bing Crosby, Bob Burns of Bazooka fame, and Frances Farmer, "Rhythm on the Range" provides a rollicking story garnished with high comedy and hit tunes. The plot itself is unique and well fitted for the tempo of the romance and melody it supports.

"THE CASE AGAINST MRS. AMES"

George Brent, dynamic Irish hero of a score of hits, is co-starred with Madeleine Carroll, English screen favorite, in her first American-made picture, "The Case Against Mrs. Ames," coming to the Cameron Theatre Friday August 14.

A story as close to life as yesterday's headlines, centered about a woman's fight to clear her name of murder and keep the custody of her 6-year-old child, is the basis of "The Case Against Mrs. Ames." Miss Carroll is cast in the title role.

POPPY

A carnival of the 80's, with a background of calliope music, animals, snake charmers, barkers and concession operators, is the setting for the W. C. Fields picture "Poppy," coming to the Cameron Theatre Thursday August 13. The scene is one in which Fields is completely at home.

Fields appears as a patent medicine vendor and shell game worker who finds "separating a yokel from his financial burden" a pastime without equal. In his custody he has Rochelle Hudson as "Poppy," eighteen year old girl who has grown up as a carnival follower.

The setting and story give Fields his best opportunity in a long and successful film career to exploit the inimitable Fields humor. Backing up the star are a list of featured players headed by Lynne Overman, Catherine Doucet and Rosalind Keith.

"BRIDES ARE LIKE THAT"

Brides Are Like That" First National's latest rollicking comedy romance, is coming to the Cameron Theatre Saturday August 15.

Bill Alexander plays the role of the ne'er-do-well soft soap and back slapping make him well liked, but distrusted as a son-in-law or business man. Anita Louise plays opposite him in the leading feminine role, that of the prettiest girl in town and the daughter of prosperous parents.

Others in the cast include Mary Treen, Joseph Crehan, Frank Darien and Robert Emmett Keane. William McGann directed.

"YOURS FOR THE ASKING"

George Raft and Dolores Costello Barrymore come to the Cameron Theatre Tuesday and Wednesday August 18 and 19 in "Yours for the Asking."

"BORDER PATROLMAN"

The locale of "The Border Patrolman," Fox release starring George O'Brien, at the Milam Theatre Friday and Saturday August 14 and 15, ranges from the desolately beautiful desert country to a smart desert hotel and then down into Old Mexico, where many of its most exciting scenes take place in picturesque backgrounds.

FUNERAL SERVICES FOR C. L. BUTTS MONDAY

Charles L. Butts, 87, pioneer, native of Alabama and a resident of Texas since 1869, died in Cameron at 5 o'clock Sunday afternoon August 9, 1936.

Mr. Butts had been in critical health for several months, under treatment at a local hospital. With his daughter he moved to an apartment in Cameron with the view of later returning to his country home at Maysfield when his health was improved.

Funeral services were held at the Maysfield Presbyterian church at 4 p. m. Monday August 10, 1936 with Rev. Henry Bailey, pastor, conducting the ceremonies. Interment was made in Little River Cemetery.

Mr. Butts was born in Alabama but came to Texas in 1869, settling in Milam county, at Maysfield. He later moved to Ben Arnold and resided several years, then returned to Maysfield. Mr. Butts farmed extensively and raised cattle. He was married to Miss Emma Murphy, who preceded him in death 45 years ago. Six children were born to this union, two of them dying in infancy. The four of them surviving are: Mrs. Webb Todd of Cameron; Mrs. Gil Newton, Miss Susie Butts and Louie Butts, Maysfield.

Two sisters, Mrs. Mary Freeman, Maysfield and Mrs. Laura Cook of Franklin and one brother, N. H. Butts of Cameron and five grandchildren also survive Mr. Butts.

WERE YOU SATISFIED?

Did the prescription we filled help Junior's cold? Were you pleased, Mr. Customer, with that new lotion we recommended? That beach-ball you got here last week—was it the bargain we said it would be? How about it, Mr. Customer—were you satisfied?

The Answer is Invariably "Yes"

"Yes," because, in the long run, satisfaction comes with accuracy. Accuracy and truthfulness in our recommendations. Accuracy in the way we fill prescriptions—pure, costly ingredients, accurate weights and measurements, accurate because of absolute cleanliness and care in filling. And yet the thoroughness, detailed correctness, with which we run our prescription department is only typical of all our business dealings. We urge you to try the services of Dusek Drugs.

ICERS BEAT ROSEBUD IN WILD SCORING

The Cameron Icers downed the Rosebud Roses at the Green Athletic field Sunday afternoon by a score of 15 to 6.

But that tells nothing of the story. A play came up in the seventh inning while the Roses were at bat and during the squabble between the Roses and Umpire Tucker the Rosebud manager, Red Muldrew, was ordered off the field. It required two hours and twenty minutes of actual combat to settle the question.

The Roses first scored in the 4th when Jansen poled a long hit homer over the center field with the bases loaded. The Icers however made one run in the second. In the fourth they evened the score by pushing over 3 more tallies. From there on it was nip and tuck until the fateful seventh. In this inning the Rosebud manager was ejected from the playing field.

In the eighth the Icers turned the game into a farce when they scored seven runs on eight hits. The Roses were able to score only in three innings when they scored four runs in the fourth and one each in the fifth and ninth. During the game the Icers collected but seven hits of the offerings of Riddle while the Icers collected sixteen hits off the combined hurling of Horton and Jansen.

"YOU CAN'T MATCH GLASSIES AGAINST AGATES"

A Basic Business Rule Learned At Age 9!

"Glasses," as we remember from our boyhood marble-playing days, were despised imitations of agates, the true aristocrats of the game. At eight, they were hard to tell apart—but woe unto the lad who tried to play glasses for agates. All confidence and respect for him fled; and business relationships were thereafter scorned.

Schiller operates on the principle which this moral teaches. Inferior merchandise and second-hand standards of doing business are taboo. Our trade is conducted on the tested grounds of confidence. Our integrity, our sincere desire to be of superior service are well recognized throughout Milam County.

Learn to depend on us always. Our prescription weights and measures are accurate. Our merchandise is better. We will not let you down.

FARM CLUB NEWS

Plans are well under way for a two day trip for farm folks to the Texas Centennial August 25-26. The trip is being sponsored by the county Home Demonstration Council. Throughout the rural town division of the Centennial, reservations for the delegation have been made at the Tent City. Local busses are being used as a means of transportation of the group. Persons desiring reservations should make this request through their local club president or with the County or Home Demonstration Agents. The reservation fee which covers all expenses for the two day stay in Dallas will be $3.60 for boys and girls and $4.00 for adults. This does not include transportation charges. Boys

All persons planning to make the trip are asked to make reservations on or before Wednesday, August 19th.

In spite of the uncertain weather conditions, 689 containers of fruit, vegetables and other eats have been added to the pantry shelf of Mrs. Walter Garrett, Pantry Demonstrator for the Clarkson Home Demonstration Club. To complete the family budget of 949 containers, Mrs. Garrett plans for a Fall garden including practically the same vegetables planted in the Spring garden.

Sprouting the potatoes before planting the Fall Irish potato crop is being planned by Mrs. J. Tom Williams of the Sandy Creek Home Demonstration Club. Due to the shortage of the Spring crop many other demonstrators have planned for the Fall crop which may be stored the entire winter. For sprouting, the potatoes are placed in a shady straw or grass bed covered with a tow sack and kept moist for 2 or 3 weeks. When the potatoes are sprouted, they are cut into extra large pieces and planted slightly deeper than the spring crop.

Your family gets tired of turnip greens and collards. Why not treat them to a variety of vegetables that will grow equally as well during the fall as mustard or turnips, states J. F. Rosborough, Extension Horticulturist.

Carrots if planted in the fall will withstand cooler weather than turnips. They will also be available for use throughout the spring months and into the early summer. Denver's Half Long is a good variety to plant.

Detroit Dark Red Beets will also stand as much cold weather as turnips. Remember that the seed of the beets are in a seed pod which we commonly think is one seed. On the contrary you will find that there are three or four seed contained in each pod. When beets first come up we say that they "go to top." In reality all the seed in the pod will have come up and are competing with each other for supremacy. Naturally no bulb is produced below the surface when the plants are this close together. When your beets have attained a height of three or four inches, thin them out to four inches apart in the row. Then it will not be a great while before you will have nice beets read for table use.

Swiss Chard is another vegetable that you can add to the fall planting. Cold weather will have little effect upon this new vegetable for your garden. When the leaves have made sufficient growth to be used as greens be careful and separate the veins in the leaves from the tender portion between the veins. Some housewives complain that Swiss Chard has a bitter taste. By removing the large coarse veins from the leaves and using only the tender portion of the plant you will find that Swiss Chard compares very favorably with spinach.

Pinto Beans will mature under ordinary conditions before frost. With the coming of cooler weather, fresh pinto beans will add excellent variety to the vegetable diet. A good variety of quick maturing stringless bush bean is bountiful.

Onion Sets may be planted now. The crop will be ready to harvest next May. Throughout the winter, onion sets planted now will furnish excellent green onions for the table. A few feet of Icicle or China Winter Rose radishes will add another tasteful variety to your table.

Shogoin variety of turnip grows well under hot weather conditions and is reported to be lice proof.

Endive is a hardy winter vegetable and may be substituted for lettuce for salads.

How Have You Prepared the Soil?
Fall gardening is waste of effort unless the soil is thoroughly prepared. In turning under a growth of careless weeds and dried up string vegetables is where most of us go wrong. By cutting the weeds down and throwing them over the garden fence before plowing is begun, you have taken the first step toward a successful garden. The turned under weeds heat and dry out the soil above and prevent thorough cultivation. In most barn lots at this time of the year you will find a layer several inches thick of tramped manure that has dried out, losing the acids that burn plants. (This material is largely a mass of vegetable fiber.) After the garden soil has been plowed, spread a coating one to two inches thick of this summer manure over the surface, then rebreak the ground or disc and harrow until it is well mixed into the soil. This spongy material will greatly increase the water holding capacity of the soil and prevent it from packing. When fall rains come, the garden soil handled in this manner will be ready for planting.

Getting Fall Potatoes to Come Up.
It is often difficult to get the fall crop of potatoes to come up even when moisture is adequate. Potatoes from the spring crop should have at least 6 weeks of "rest" between harvest and planting time before they can be expected to sprout. To encourage sprouting, there are two methods of treating seed potatoes that may be used. One is to cover the potatoes with damp straw, after placing in a shady location, and when sprouting begins, plant. The other is to treat potatoes with a solution of 1 pint of ethylene chlohydrin to 4 gallons of water. This quantity of solution will treat 5 bushels of potatoes.

KUNZ HEADS LEGION POST IN CAMERON

Edwin Hardy Post No. 9 met in regular session Tuesday August 4. The following officers for the coming year were elected: Commander, August Kunz; First Vice Commander, J. A. Henderson; Second Vice Commander, Ernest Walston; Adjutant, Emmett Streetman; Finance Officer, L. F. Gohmert; Service Officer, H. B. McEllen; Sgt. at Arms, Herman Lange; Historian, L. R. Harris. Executive Committee: O. B. Horstmann, John R. Hays, Ralph Michalka, F. E. Woodruff, John Muse.

The best news the Post has had in a long time was the report that the Legion hut at the Wilson-Ledbetter park was paid for in full. The Post now has a home that they can well be proud of. A dedication service and program will be held in the near future.

The new officers are working out a program for the coming year and hope that the Post will be one of the largest in the Department of Texas. One part of the program is the milk fund for the undernourished children of the schools.

"The Phantom Rider"

EMERGENCIES part of the day's work

A telephone operator in a small Southwestern town did these things on a recent busy day:

She called a doctor for a distracted mother whose baby was ill. She helped locate a barge so a farmer could save 37 head of cattle on an island about to be flooded. She handled a call that rushed workmen to strengthen a crumbling levee. And she told an anxious motorist that the highway to the west was still above water.

To her, this was all in the day's work.

Some other things that are "all in the day's work" in the Bell System are the staff work of American Telephone & Telegraph Co., the researches of Bell Laboratories, the skillful manufacturing and buying of Western Electric.

You seldom think of these organizations. Yet without the help they give to the men and women who furnish telephone service here, it would be difficult to make that service as fast, as clear, as far-reaching, and as low in cost as you have learned to expect.

OUR TOWN

But many recent graduates can't find work, and are still idle. They have their longings for success and achievement, but what can they do if no one will hire them?

Youth has one great advantage that age does not. Youth rebounds quickly from a mood of discouragement.

American youth should not take its fears too seriously. Its power for achievement was never greater. Ways will be found for that power to express itself. When people go out into the world with ability to do things, that ability makes itself felt and recognized. If it doesn't find its opportunity in one direction it will in some other.

Authorities on home affairs tell us we must budget the family. We all politely applaud and agree. But can we make a budget to which all members of the family will assent. After making it, can we adhere to it, when the sports invite us to join their junkets and forget the budget?

It is one thing to fix a reasonable expenditure, and another thing not to exceed that figure. In many families, the family budget is "laid on the table" much of the time, to use the legislative phrase.

Those little habits, those pretty petty voices, those favorite extravagances, what about them? How budget them? Many a man is willing to economize on his wife's hats. Many a lady will consent to curb the husband's smokes. The home budget plan will not go far, unless every member will take his share of the stinting.

Some people are governed by the amount of money in their purses at any time. As long as there is anything there, they feel rich, and spend accordingly. If they are half through the month, and the money is only one-third gone, it never occurs to them to save the balance, or hold it in reserve for some greater need.

These are the folks who need a budget badly. They very frequently make one, and forget it with equal speed.

To live up to a budget, the housewife must often pass over the festive chicken and the appetizing roast, and content herself with the humble soupbone or the modest stew. But out of little economies comfort and fortune grow. If you want education for your children or a better home, you will have to learn to look at things without buying them.

Get Rid of Poisons

Produced by Constipation

A cleansing laxative—purely vegetable Black-Draught—is the first thought of thousands of men and women who have found that by restoring the downward movement of the bowels many disagreeable symptoms of constipation promptly can be relieved. . . Mr. J. P. Mahaffey, of Clinton, S. C., writes: "I have found that Black-Draught is very effective in the cleansing of the system. When affected by the dull headache, the drowsiness and lassitude caused by constipation, I take Black-Draught."

Tame Bears Prove Pests to Campers

Seward, Alaska. — Brown bears, so tame and accustomed to humans, that they will pose for pictures within 100 feet, and manifest not the slightest viciousness, unless accompanied by cubs, have been reported in great droves near Chackachamna lake, in the main Alaska range of mountains on the Seward peninsula, north of Mount Katmai.

This report was brought here by Jack Lean, famed international guide, who took out the Fleishacker party last fall.

While the party was camped near the lake, the cook was kept busy chasing black bears out of the tents. The animals evidently had never before seen a human and not until guns were discharged did they manifest the slightest fear.

GET DAMAGES FOR SELF-MUTILATION

Insurance Racket Uncovered in California.

Los Angeles, Calif.—Sensational charges of self-mutilation to collect damages for traffic accidents were made by District Attorney Buron Fitts after investigation of an alleged accident racket which he said cost insurance companies $1,000,000 a year.

Assembling evidence with a secretly installed short wave radio, detectives arrested five Long Beach residents in connection with a local insurance case.

Harold Jenkins, forty-five, his wife, Alta, forty-two, and Elton Miner, forty-five, were booked on suspicion of grand theft. William Bone, thirty-nine, and Martin Biggs, forty, were held on suspicion of mayhem and suspicion of grand theft.

From a radio set and from an under-cover informant, District Attorney's Investigator Charles E. Griffin said he learned the following:

Last May 9, Mr. and Mrs. Jenkins drove with the informant to a busy intersection, where Jenkins slashed a tire.

In another car, Biggs and Bone picked up the three and drove to the Biggs-Bone home. There a radio was turned on full blast to drown out screams, when Biggs struck Jenkins' arm with a rolling pin, fracturing the bone. Biggs next beat the informer's body with the rolling pin. A blood-filled hypodermic was squirted in his ear, simulating a basal skull fracture.

Meanwhile Mrs. Jenkins was shredding the skin off her legs with a cheese grater.

Miner then drove the injured persons to a hospital, reporting he had run them down while they were repairing a puncture.

Griffin said Jenkins and his wife confessed, charging Biggs had told them of "an easy way to make money." The others protested their innocence, Griffin said.

Operatives said they installed a compact radio broadcasting set in the Biggs-Bone home and tuned in conversations.

Burglar Is Trapped by "Heavy Meal" in Vienna

Vienna.—Epicurean taste is a grave handicap for a man who is a burglar by profession, as for example Alois Korinek, who was arrested in the wine-cellar of an elegant villa in a fashionable Vienna district.

Korinek "cleaned up" the richly furnished villa during the absence of the owner, Dr. G. Von Mahler, in the record time of 30 minutes. But afterward, contrary to all professional rules and precautions, he invited himself to a luxurious dinner. He simply could not withstand the temptation of the icebox and wine cellar.

Caviar, salmon, steak, pastry and wine were devoured by him until he fell asleep.

He had delicious dreams but a brutal awakening. A servant discovered him in the morning, called the police and now he has to put up with prison cooking.

Mynah Bird Can Whistle "Yankee Doodle" and—

Honolulu—Nobody talks back to Capt. Konrad Hubbenette aboard his freighter Manukai except Harry.

Harry greets the skipper with a "Hello, you big stiff," and gets away with it.

Harry is a saucy, talking mynah bird, and its vocabulary rivals any schoolboy's. The bird can whistle a hoarse version of "Yankee Doodle" and say "whoopie" in a highly satisfied manner.

Weeds Peril Irrigation

Salt Lake City.—Utah's irrigation system will be worthless in 100 years unless the spread of noxious weeds is stopped, David F. Smith, state commissioner of agriculture, warned here recently.

Back to the Farm Santa Cruz, Calif.—With country schools underattended and city schools congested, the school board has decided to transplant children from the latter to the former.

Liquor Raid

by officers. Three other negroes were jailed also.

A Texas Ranger posing as a brush salesman worked up the case against the Orange Grill operator. The grill is located in the three story hotel building in the heart of the city. When evidence was obtained, according to officers here, the trap was sprung and Kirk was arrested.

Criminal District Attorney Emory B. Camp has filed in district court before Judge Graham Gibbs a plea for a permanent restraining order prohibiting Kirk from operating the property again. The grill is now under lock and being closely guarded. Mr. Camp will prosecute Kirk and if found guilty it will be the first conviction under the new liquor laws which expressly prohibits sale of liquors by the drink in Texas.

Legitimate and law abiding package store liquor dealers were said to regard as wholesome Mr. Camp's determination to enforce the law in Milam county. They see in such violations, if proven, a serious reflection upon the dignity of repeal and the legalizing of liquors in packages only. It was known that package store owners were giving Mr. Camp every co-operation to stamp out illegal traffic in liquors and establish law in Milam county.

Mr. Camp, recently nominated for a second term in the office, was vigorous in his plan to enter actively upon a big docket of criminal cases now pending in the court.
